'FIRST' H-BOMB BLAST RELATED

JOHN FOSTER DULLES is expected to be the next U. S. secretary of State under President-elect Dwight Eisenhower. Secretary Dean Goodram Acheson says he is more than happy to turn the tremendous responsibilities—and abuse—over to a successor. The photos show Acheson aged far more than normally in four years.

Republican Victory Peps Up Morale Of U.S. Businessmen

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The election of Republican Dwight Eisenhower has pepped up the morale of many a businessman, but most of them think it will be months before any changes are made that could show up as items of profit and loss on corporate books.

They count on a kinder attitude toward business in Washington. But they expect business to go its present prosperous way for months already at work in the economy.

If Eisenhower, however, could pull a Korean peace out of the hat, there would probably be a quick reshuffling of commodity prices and business planning.

But, with or without peace, after the general moves into the White House and a more conservative Congress takes over on Capitol Hill, many businessmen hope that eventually they will see:

Man Dislikes Cadillacs, Kills Auto Owner

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 — (AP)—"I don't like well-fed looking people who drive Cadillacs."

This, police said, is the excuse given by Richard Holbrook, 35, for slaying Dr. J. V. Quinn, 49, during a wild shooting spree here Friday in which another man was wounded by the gunman.

The man who was wounded, florist Joseph M. Ivener, pursued Holbrook and helped police capture him. Ivener suffered a bullet crease across the back.

Questioned afterward by police, Holbrook, booked on suspicion of murder, said: "I've gone up to Wilshire Boulevard with my gun in my pocket lots of times and I've always made it back home, all right. But it didn't happen that way today."

Holbrook, an unemployed dishwasher and janitor who came here from Washington, D. C., three years ago, served in England with the U. S. infantry during World War II. He had a .38 caliber automatic pistol.

DR. QUINN, a member of the Women of Angels Hospital staff, was shot as he stepped his car for a signal at a busy intersection. With the physician slumped over the steering wheel, his Cadillac sedan jumped a curb and rammed into the show window.

Hearing the shot, Ivener, 38, ran from his florist's shop. A bullet hit him in the back, but he jumped into his delivery truck and pursued Holbrook, who emptied his gun. A bullet hit another car, narrowly missing two women. Police joined Ivener and in five blocks they caught Holbrook.

'No Law' Against Killing Unborn Child

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Assistant Prosecutor Harold H. Hull says a bullet fired by Michael Soltis killed Soltis' unborn child, but he adds that no law can be found making this a crime.

The law, he said, shows an infant is not a person "until it has its own respiratory breathing system." Soltis had been accused of shooting his wife, Dorothy, 19, during an argument. She said, however, the rifle was fired accidentally. The bullet struck her unborn baby.

Southern Cabinet Member Expected

Possibly A Dixiecrat Slated For High Post Under Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to name a Southerner—and possibly a Dixiecrat—to his Cabinet in recognition of the unprecedented vote he rolled up in Dixie.

While the general hardly has had time since his landslide victory in last Tuesday's election to make progress toward picking any Cabinet member, friends here said they believe he will make it clear by such an appointment that he intends to deal the South in on his administration.

Eisenhower's three top supporters in the South were Governors James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Robert Kennon of Louisiana and Allan Shivers of Texas. None of them may want a Cabinet post, but all might be consulted about the selection of a Dixie colleague.

GOP strategists are looking at the vote polled by the general in Dixie as the possible basis for revival of the Republican Party in an area where it has been only a skeleton organization in the past.

EISENHOWER carried Virginia, Florida, Texas, and apparently Tennessee and these states are regarded as the best bets for starting a rebuilding program.

They also class Louisiana, South Carolina and Arkansas as states where they may have a chance to build Republican strength. They are not too hopeful about Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and North Carolina.

Eisenhower's friends already are looking ahead to his expected reelection contest in 1956.

Some of them argue that unless he keeps the South in the forefront during the interim, he cannot hope to have any such Dixie support in 1956.

These strategists remember what happened to Herbert Hoover in 1932 after he broke the South wide open in 1928 in the battle with Alfred E. Smith.

Significantly, perhaps, Eisenhower picked Dixie for his brief vacation. But his stay in Augusta, Ga.,

UN Big Guns Continues To Hammer Reds

SEOUL, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Allied big guns hammered thundering barrages Saturday at Communist artillery strongholds in the Kumhwa ridges and mighty Osong Mountain on the central Korean front.

The savage fighting that for more than three weeks marched up and down the shell-blistered slopes of Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill has faded.

Allied gunners were firing nearly 1,000 rounds an hour aimed at knocking out the strongest Communist artillery concentration of the Korean war. Many of the Red guns were protected by deep log and earthbunkers or tunnels.

Time after time the Red artillery had cut down South Koreans short of the crest as they stormed up the slopes of Triangle Hill. Allied commanders finally called a halt this week and asked the artillery to bleed off the Red firepower.

In the air war, nine Superforts from Okinawa dumped 90 tons of bombs at a North Korean staff school at Yongpung, on the west coast. Two Communist night fighters attacked Airman Don W. Murray, Mazon, Ill., was credited with shooting down one, a jet.

He Gambled, Lost To Save Company

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The U. S. attorney's office and the FBI have been ordered to investigate testimony by a young steel company executive that he gambled away $100,000 of his company's money in a vain attempt to save it from ruin.

Charles Leaf, 31, president of the Mid-America Steel Warehouse Company, told a federal referee in bankruptcy his gambling spree began in Las Vegas, Nev., on Oct. 17. In three days, he said he won $70,000 at dice and blackjack games. But then, he testified, he lost the $70,000, plus $110,000 of his firm's money at the rate of about $12,000 a day.

seemed to involve almost as much work as play.

In an exchange of messages with President Truman Friday, Eisenhower said he will send some of his representatives to the State and Defense Departments immediately, as suggested by Truman.

TRUMAN ALREADY had asked for a man to sit in with the budget planners and there were reports here that Elliott Bell, former New York state superintendent of banks under Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, might be chosen for that role. Any such designation would whip up speculation around Bell as a possible choice for secretary of the Treasury.

Eisenhower went ahead Saturday with arrangements to name his representatives for a series of briefing conferences, which may begin early next week at the Pentagon and the State Department.

The names of the men who will act as liaison officers for him have not been announced.

He has been in communication by telephone with his advisers, however, and members of his staff here indicated they believe the talks in Washington can start Monday or Tuesday. In addition to discussions in the Departments of State and Defense, Eisenhower is sending a representative to meet with the director of the budget in connection with the 1953-54 budget.

Eisenhower himself will go to the White House for a conference Nov. 17, Truman said.

Dem Senators See No Fight For Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Democratic senators show no signs of trying to block the Republicans from taking over control of the Senate when the new Congress convenes Jan. 3.

From their comments it appears that, despite the almost even division between the two parties, a fight over Senate organization is unlikely to materialize.

Sen. Hoey (D-N.C.) said he did not think there would be any disposition among the Democrats to try to prevent the Republicans from grasping the leadership reins, barring some "material change" in the present outlook.

Other Democrats who expressed a similar view included Senators Hunt of Wyoming and Fulbright of Arkansas, the latter one of Gov. Adlai Stevenson's advisers in the presidential campaign.

Barring deaths or vacancies from other causes, the Republicans will have 48 seats in the new Senate, the Democrats 47. The other one is held by Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who declared himself an independent after bolting the Republican Party to support Stevenson.

If Morse should vote with the Democrats, Vice President-elect Richard Nixon would give control to the Republicans.

Actress Advised Anti-Periscope Law Not On Books

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8 — (AP)—It all started, actress Christine Larson told the police, when Herbert Kubowitz came to her home to repair some plumbing.

Then Kubowitz bought the house next door, moved in and offered to fix her porch, build her a garage and fix her plumbing—all for free. He was turned down.

Miss Larson, who has more than an adequate figure, added that he then cut down all the shrubbery and "he used to sit and look over here all the time. When I put up a trellis, he put up a spotlight facing my place. I made the trellis higher and then he put up a periscope."

The police informed her there is no anti-periscope ordinance ordinance here.

Search Abandoned

MANILA, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The U. S. Seventh Air Force has broken off its search for a B-29 Superfortress which disappeared two weeks ago while tracking a typhoon off the Eastern Philippines. The plane carried a crew of 10.

Blind Women Hit By Thug

Pair Is Savagely Beaten In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Police are looking for a heavy set man who entered the apartment of two attractive blind women as they prepared for bed Friday night and savagely beat them.

Neighbors heard the screams of Nora Yvonne Wigley, 19, and Geraldine Armstrong, 22, totally blind since birth, and scared off the intruder. No one could give an accurate description.

The man entered shortly after the last guest had left from a cooking demonstration being given in the apartment. Miss Wigley gave this account of the attack: "After everyone had gone we were getting ready to go to bed. I was in a small dressing room when I heard someone come in the front door and Geraldine asked who was there."

"I could tell it was a man by his foot steps. He didn't say anything. Then I heard the light switch click and I knew he had turned the lights off."

"WE THOUGHT somebody we knew was playing a joke on us. Then I heard Geraldine get scared. She said, 'Who are you? Are you trying to play hide and seek? Why don't you say something?'"

Miss Wigley said she heard the man strike her roommate and heard her screams. Then she said, "something hit her."

"I put my hands up over my head and he hit me again and I fell to the floor."

Neither of the girls would return to the apartment after the attack. Both said they would spend the rest of the evening with friends.

Western Big Three Powers Book Parleys

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 8 — (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Western Big Three powers scheduled meetings in New York this weekend for top-level policy discussions on Korea and other major problems facing the United Nations.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is due to arrive here Saturday to take part in the Korean debate which already is off to a running start in the General Assembly.

The other two ministers, France's Robert Schuman and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, already are on hand. Schuman arrived in New York Friday and Acheson returned to the UN for his first appearance since he went to his Maryland home to vote in the U. S. presidential election.

Eden and Schuman purposely had delayed their arrivals at the UN until after the American voting. Now they are confronted with the fact that Acheson, with whom they have discussed major issues many times before, is in a "lame duck" position as a result of the Republican victory.

As yet, there are no plans for all three ministers to get together around the same table this week-end, but American delegation spokesmen said Acheson had scheduled separate meetings with both Eden and Schuman.

City's Campaign On Sidewalks Points Long Finger At County

Said the City of Circleville to the County of Pickaway:

"Your bad sidewalk is showing!"

Dewey Speakman, Circleville city service director directing a drive against faulty sidewalks here, Saturday said local residents have pointed an accusing finger at the county.

They want to know why, if the city is waging a campaign for sidewalk repairs, something isn't done about the sidewalk in front of Pickaway County Courthouse.

"YES, THAT'S right," Speakman said. "A woman called me up the other day about that. She said she nearly broke a leg on bad pavement in front of the courthouse. And she wants the city to do something about it."

"As far as I know, it's the county's responsibility to fix that sidewalk and I'm going to see (County Commissioner) John Keller about it."

"Then he'll probably be over

Manslaughter Charge Faces Kingston Man

An accusation of second degree manslaughter was filed Saturday against Preston Beeman, 41, of Kingston.

The accusation was filed in connection with an accident late Wednesday north of Circleville fatal to Kenneth E. Huston, 20, of near Jackson.

Huston was struck by an auto at about 8:10 p. m. Wednesday as he was rolling a tire along Route 23 near Clay's restaurant, about four miles north of Circleville.

The auto failed to stop after the incident. Later, just south of Columbus, the Kingston man was arrested by a state highway patrolman for drunken driving.

HIS AUTO was found to be damaged on the right front fender and headlight. Investigation was begun.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Saturday said he was convinced there was enough evidence indicating the Beeman car was involved to merit the accusation.

The accusation was being heard later Saturday by Magistrate Oscar Root.

Air Force Seeks Missing Packet

FAIRBANKS, Nov. 8 — (AP)—An Air Force plane which disappeared with 19 men aboard while flying in interior Alaska Friday is the object of an intensive search by 26 planes flying under adverse weather conditions.

The big flying packet, a C-119 from the 435th Troop Carrier Group of Miami, Fla., came to Alaska last week to participate in joint Air Force-Army maneuvers.

New Trial Asked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (AP)—A new trial has been petitioned for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, husband and wife facing death as atomic bomb spies, and an attorney has asked permission to file a brief in the case.

Atom Explosion Claimed 'Runt' By Comparison

'Eye-Witness' Story Is Published By Los Angeles Paper

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The "first eyewitness account of a hydrogen bomb explosion at Eniwetok," carried Saturday by the Los Angeles Examiner, says the H-bomb makes the A-bomb look like "a runt."

The Examiner's story, written by Science Editor Chris Clausen, says the H-bomb test took place on a small atoll in the Eniwetok group recently. It did not give the date.

"It is likely," Clausen wrote, "that the tremendous unparalleled force of the H-bomb, the world's first, vaporized into gas and dust the atoll, a half mile wide and three miles long, on which the detonation took place."

In Honolulu, two military public information officers claimed Saturday they had no knowledge of any hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific area.

Capt. Harry Cross at Pacific fleet headquarters said he knew nothing of the tests except that they were scheduled for this fall.

MAJ. DOUGLAS Mitchell at the Army's Pacific headquarters said if the tests had taken place, "it's complete news to me."

The eyewitness account of the big explosion, the Examiner said, was furnished by a Los Angeles resident who received a letter from a friend at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific proving grounds. The AEC has kept mum on the scheduled autumn tests.

The blast, the letter writer said, was viewed through dark glasses and "appeared a huge orange ball, which grew larger and brighter until it appeared as if no dark glasses were there at all."

Intense heat was felt almost immediately. The writer continued: "The ball of fire started to rise and slowly lose its intensity. We took off our glasses and saw water vapor suddenly form around the column. Then it rushed into the base of the column and up, clearing the air so that you could see countless tons of water rushing skyward."

"The column went up and up and finally mushroomed. About three minutes later, the report, like a nearby cannon shot, hit us and was followed by several seconds of dull rumbling."

"Then the mushroom expanded into a free halo, growing with tornado-like speed and reaching nearly over our ship before it appeared to cease growing. Then it appeared to connect itself to the main column by a web of filmy vapor."

"All we could do was stand there and gasp in amazement and awe at the enormous size and force released before us."

"TYPICAL COMMENT from old-timers: 'Holy cow! That sure makes the A-bomb a runt.' And so I saw our first H-bomb explode."

The Examiner withheld the names of both the writer and the donor of the letter.

The H-bomb has been estimated at up to 1,000 times more powerful than the A-bomb. The AEC has announced that the 1951 spring series included tests "contributing to the thermonuclear weapons research," a reference to the intense heat of a hydrogen explosion. Presumably, a small, experimental amount of hydrogen was used at that time.

Texas-Ohio Gas Line OK Denied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (AP)—A Texas-Ohio Gas Co. proposal to construct a pipeline from Texas to a point near Lancaster, O., was rejected Friday by the Federal Power Commission.

The Houston, Tex., firm sought to construct a 1,406-mile, $180 million pipeline to import natural gas from Mexico. It told the commission it would sell all its gas to reserve Natural Gas Co. at the Ohio terminus of the line. But FPC said the company "failed on this record to show that the proposed service, construction or operation is or will be required by the present or future public convenience and necessity."

Punching Topkick

FRANKLIN, Ind., Nov. 8 — (AP)—Judson Hendricks did what a lot of newly discharged soldiers have dreamed of—he socked his former topkick on the jaw.

Sgt. Jack B. Meyer of Camp Atterbury thereupon filed assault and battery charges against the 20-year-old ex-soldier from Mobile, Ala. Judge Oral Barnett Friday fined Hendricks $35 and gave him a 30-day suspended sentence.

Man Gets Term

HAMILTON, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Dennis Robinette, operator of a now-padded locked motel in Darriown Park, was sentenced to 90 days in the Cincinnati Workhouse and fined $500 and costs Friday for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

The McCarran Internal Security Committee of the U.S. Senate is digging out some startling facts on the Communist Fifth Column organization in our nation.

But the reports on its findings are not getting wide enough circulation throughout the population.

They ought to be read and studied by every parent and teacher, by every college student and high school senior in the nation. They shed light on an internal conspiracy that, in spite of a growing resentment against it, is still scoring amazing successes in its work to communize America.

Anybody can get copies of the Judiciary Committee's transcripts simply by writing his Congressman or Senator, or the U.S. Government Printing Office.

ASK FOR transcripts of the hearings delving into subversive infiltration. These documents provide the most dramatic reading available in America today.

They bring into the reach of your mind and mind's eye exciting and vitally important episodes in the great human conflict of this age—godless Communism vs. Christianity—Freedom vs. Slavery.

Judiciary sub-committee recently released transcript of testimony taken in its investigation into Communist infiltration of radio, television and the entertainment industry.

The sub-committee said its hearings in this field sought to determine: (1) "To what extent are these media of expression conduits for the poison of Godless Communism?" and (2) "To what extent has the Communist fifth column succeeded in worming its way into the nerve centers of public expression?" The sub-committee's conclusions, based on its findings, are stunning.

It finds that pro-Communist writers have gained the political control of an organization of 1,500 radio writers who produce 90 per cent of the spoken words heard on all the radio networks of the country.

The committee concluded, further, that this Red stranglehold was being used in some instances to slant news and dramatic shows in a manner to subtly conform to the Communist line and to just as subtly undermine the love of country and its institutions.

An anti-Communist faction of the radio writers' guild is fighting the Red control. Members of this anti-Communist group have been testifying in the Judiciary Committee hearings.

Paul R. Milton, author of 10 books, contributor to such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post and Life, and for the past 10 years a top-flight radio writer, has given testimony clearly exposing the whole body of the danger.

"THE MORE Communist individuals or the Communist element are in control of any element of the broadcasting industry," he told the committee, "to that degree they lend that industry to the dissemination of Communist ideas. . . . This means that the broadcasting industry, through programs, through the publicly expressed attitudes of its personalities, can aid in the dissemination of Communist ideas by means of radio and television. . . ."

"Communist ideas and attitudes may be expressed in the most ordinary dramatic programs by holding up to ridicule the various American ideals of free enterprise, of democracy, of capitalism as we understand it, of American institutions in the shape of our legislative arms; of holding up, for instance, the FBI to ridicule. . . . It is possible for a writer to hold up to scorn an American ideal without in any sense seemingly carrying out a propaganda activity."

This can have the effect of arousing public opinion on a question under an emotional stimulus which has a Communist origin and which is not clear to anybody except close observers of the situation. . . . At times it may be extremely critical for the security of our country."

Paul Milton, who is working among them and has been fighting them for years, believes that Communists should be legally controlled—outlawed. "I hope," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee, "that eventually it will be decided within the framework of American history and ideals, that to be a Communist or to subscribe to doctrines of that nature is treasonable."

Most sober-minded people who know Communism for what it really is feel the same way. Get these Judiciary Committee transcripts and learn why.

Incinerator Kills Greenfield Man

GREENFIELD, Nov. 8.—(P)—Dr. J. M. Byers, Highland County coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death in the death Friday of Howard E. Butler, 25, of Greenfield.

The coroner said Butler suffocated and burned to death when he fell into an outdoor incinerator at his home.

Ringgold EUB Church Project Now Completed

Following months of redecoration and remodeling, East Ringgold Evangelical United Brethren church is now completed and ready for use.

The Rev. Fred Ketter is pastor of the church and plans are being completed for dedication ceremonies to be held Dec. 7.

Members of the Ladies Aid Society furnished the funds for the redecoration. The walls are done in mulberry with white trim and the pulpit and carpeting are green.

Also new is the basement under the church, with seven Sunday school rooms completed. Remodeling started last Spring.

Adlai To Honor Free Press Editor

ALTON, Ill., Nov. 8.—(P)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois will speak Sunday at a ceremony here commemorating the death of an Abolitionist editor killed 115 years ago today in defense of a free press.

The Rev. Elijah P. Lovejoy, Alton editor and Presbyterian minister, was shot fatally after a mob set fire to an Alton warehouse where he was guarding his new printing press. This followed destruction of three other presses owned by Lovejoy by anti-Abolitionists angered by Lovejoy's articles on the slavery question.

Crippled Children Society To Meet

Delegates from the Pickaway County group will go to Columbus next weekend to attend the 33rd annual meeting of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children.

Representing this area will be Mrs. Mae Groome of the county welfare organization and Mrs. Clark S. Alexander, president of Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children.

At least 300 volunteers and professional workers for the statewide Easter Seal programs are expected to attend the two-day session.

Principal speakers will discuss rheumatic fever, muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and other causes of childhood disabilities.

The state society and its affiliated county societies and other co-operating Easter Seal units sponsor medical care and physical training of crippled children. The work is financed by contributions.

Dear Senators: Let The Body Cool

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(P)—This sign, printed in red letters, hangs on the office door of Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz.), defeated in Tuesday's election.

"Not for rent until January 3." Members of the Senate Democratic leader's staff posted the sign, explained that other senators had sent emissaries to look over the office to find out whether the quarters McFarland will vacate on Jan. 3 are in any way preferable to the ones they now occupy.

"We thought they might at least let the body get cold," said one of McFarland's aides.

Estate Tax Set At $21 Million

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(P)—British inheritance tax collectors took a bite of $21,229,933 of the estate of Viscount Portman, who died in 1948.

The death duty, amounting to 75 per cent of the estate of the wealthy land owner, was the second biggest levy in recent years in Britain.

The value of the portion of the estate subject to levy was fixed at about $28,280,000 after four years of negotiation.

Illinois Miners Recall Disaster

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 8.—(P)—Dimming memories of the worst mine disaster in Illinois history will be revived Sunday.

To Be Popular, European Tourist Need Only Show Common Courtesy

By HAL BOYLE
ROME.—(P)—If there is anything an American cannot stand, it is to be disliked. And the feeling he is disliked abroad ruins the visit of many a tourist to Europe.

"You know, they really don't like us over here," one tourist tells another, and adds virtuously:

"After all we did for them, too; I just can't understand it."

It is this attitude, of course, this air of bragging look-at-all-we-did-for-you, that is sure to win contemptuous dislike where ever and whenever it is displayed. The ordinary European doesn't like to be regarded as an object of charity; he does not regard Uncle Sam's roving nephews as philanthropists, and in any case he is unwilling to drop dead of gratitude for anybody.

The best way to win friends and influence people in Europe is to avoid taking personal credit

19 Cincy Kids Held In Feud

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—(P)—Nineteen pupils at Cincinnati Central Vocational high school were arraigned in juvenile court Friday on assault charges stemming from injuries inflicted upon at least 19 boys and girls going to Cincinnati Hughes.

During the last several weeks, Central Vocational gangs of 15 to 20 boys have knocked Hughes boys unconscious with clubs and have manhandled Hughes girls. The assaults began after the Central football team whipped Hughes, 47-0, on Oct. 17. Hearings for the 19 Central Vocational youths were continued.

Oil Shoves Army Off Of Big Camp

CAMP COOKE, Calif., Nov. 8.—(P)—Discovery of oil on this 84,000-acre Army camp has caused it to be placed on an inactive status for possible use.

The camp, one of the largest in the nation, is owned almost entirely by the federal government. Subsurface mineral rights were retained by the owners when the property was acquired during the national emergency before the start of World War II. Exploitation of the mineral rights was suspended during the war and until it was legally ended early this year.

Lausche Orders Audit Of Auditor

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—(P)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche, saying that statute requires an audit of the state auditor's books before his successor takes office, announced a private firm will audit the books of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Democrat.

"Little Joe" lost Tuesday's election to Republican Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus after 16 years in office. The last audit of the state auditor's office took place before Ferguson became auditor.

Shirley And Shirley May Leave Shirley

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 8.—(P)—Shirley Sisk has filed suit for divorce against Shirley Sisk.

Mrs. Sisk, who filed the suit Friday, is the former Shirley Dismukes. The Sisks have one child, a daughter. The child's name—Shirley.

Wyandot Claims Youngest Sheriff

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov. 8.—(P)—Residents in this area think they may have the youngest sheriff ever to hold office in Ohio.

He's 24-year-old Dean McAllister, Republican, who became Wyandot County sheriff Tuesday with a decisive win over John L. Long of Wharton, a Democrat.

Contemporary Artists In France Show New Type Of Religious Art

By PRESTON GROVER
PARIS—Approach of the Christmas season in Europe tends to stress a religious art issue in France.

In European churches, statues of the Holy Family usually are set up at Christmas time in a manger scene. These scenes are presented in the traditional art form.

Meanwhile, some leading contemporary artists and some churches have combined to introduce a new type of religious art which contrasts sharply with the old.

The traditional form was worked out in centuries of painting and sculpture of religious subjects. Christ is almost always painted in white clothing and given a calm but sorrowing face, European in cast. Mary is dressed in blue. Joseph is dressed in brown. Of the group, Joseph is the most nearly Middle-Eastern in appearance. The Christ child is often shown making symbolic signs as an infant.

Contemporary artists have made the greatest change in their pictures of Christ. Their work has been condemned by some bishops and approved by others. In some cases it has been ordered removed.

The changes in the pictures of Christ and in other forms of church decoration have brought blasts from some Christian writers. Monsignor Celso Costantini assailed the free-wheeling modern diversions in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano recently.

On the other hand Fr. M. A. Couturier comes to the defense of modern art. He says the work by Henri Matisse in the church he is decorating at Venice is superb.

This aging artist has taken over the whole decoration of the little church. His line drawings are in black and white. The walls are plain, unbroken expanses. In addition, the colored glass windows are so arranged that they cast their own special patterns on the walls.

Matisse is quoted as saying: "If I had not thought I had a mission, I would not have had the strength to do what I am doing."

He is eightyish and unable to spend much time on ladders. Seated in a chair, he often draws high on the wall with a brush or crayon fastened to a long pole.

Another church at Audincourt has been decorated by three of the most modern of moderns, (Mr.) Joan Miro, Fernand Leger and Jean Bazaine.

At Assy, Georges Rouault's painting of Christ has been the inspiration for a colored glass window by Paul Bony. It is harsh in line and design, but conveys the deep sadness of Christ's passion as do few other more formal, traditional portrayals of Christ.

It is only one of Rouault's efforts to accomplish an aim he set for himself, to paint a Christ so moving that anyone seeing it could not help but believe.

It is pointed out that no one painted a portrait of Christ during his lifetime. Not until centuries after His birth did painters in Christian Europe begin to decorate churches with paintings of the Holy Family.

There were conflicts as to whether Christ was blond or brunet although most often he was shown as a golden-haired figure. The same conflict as to hair coloring arose about Mary, the mother of Christ.

Holy Name Group Due To Get New Members Sunday

Enrollment of new members in the Holy Name Society will take place after the 8 a. m. Mass Sunday in St. Joseph's Catholic church.

The Holy Name Society will be taken by members, who will receive Holy Communion as a group at the Mass. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be given at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

On Tuesday evening, ladies of the Altar Society will serve a turkey dinner to which the public is invited. Serving will start at 5 p. m. in the church basement.

Regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society will be held Wednesday evening after Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, which is scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Bible Words To Live By

It would be difficult for me to select any one verse of Scripture as the one which I would place above all others as a favorite, but certainly one of my favorites is the 12th verse of the 1st Chapter of John, "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name."

I like this verse because it draws a contrast between the experience of being merely a physical child of God through creation and a spiritual child of God through the deep religious experience of receiving Christ into our hearts.

It assures us that when we are willing to receive Him, God provides all the necessary power with which to make the required changes in our attitudes, relationships, and behavior.

Dr. Edward Pruden
First Baptist Church
Washington, D. C.

My favorite Bible verse is found in the Gospel.

St. John 15:7. "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

This is my favorite passage because it answers the heart-hunger of mankind for completeness by promising the Presence and the resources of God's omnipotence. It inspires hope for me in my human weakness and frailty. Moreover, it sets forth a challenging relationship between God and the individual.

Here I learn that if I desire God's blessings and resources then I must fulfill certain requirements and conditions. God's promise is conditional upon my willingness to get into the proper environment and spirit to receive and use His blessings.

This Divine-human relationship which Jesus described when He said, "I am the vine, ye are the branches," is a stimulus to me to measure up to my part of the contract. It counteracts the laziness and laziness within me when I am tempted to shirk spiritual disciplines.

I have tested the promise again and again through the years and I always find that when I do my part God fulfills His promises.

Services Sunday will mark the completion of a series of evangelistic meetings in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church. This includes both morning and evening meetings.

The Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of Maple Street Evangelical United Brethren church in Lancaster, will bring the sermon in both services.

In the unified service in the morning, "Decision Day" will be observed. This is an opportunity, particularly for the Sunday school classes, to make the decision to follow Jesus Christ and his way of living.

Special music for the morning will be a male quartet composed of C. O. Leist, the Rev. J. A. Herbst, Dale DeLong and Cary Shasteen. Bible Study Hour will be by direction of Dale DeLong and his staff of officers and teachers.

Evening service will be held at 7:30 p. m. It will begin with the singing of gospel hymns and choruses under the leadership of the pastor, accompanied by Mrs. Herbst, Mrs. Andrew Goeller will sing a vocal solo as the special musical number of the evening.

The Compassion of Jesus

Jesus told a man sick with palsy, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," whereat scribes said He blasphemed. Jesus said, "The Son of man hath power to forgive," and to the man, "Arise, take up thy bed and go into thy house." The man obeyed.

Passing a customs house, Jesus saw a tax-gatherer named Matthew, and said, "Follow Me," and he did. The Pharisees were angry that Jesus went to Matthew's house and ate with publicans and sinners.

A certain ruler came to Christ saying his daughter was seriously ill, and might even be dead. Jesus went to his home, told the hired mourners that the girl was only sleeping. He went to her, took the maid by the hand, and she rose.

Two blind men came to Jesus, saying, "Thou son of David, have mercy upon us." Jesus asked them if they believed. He was able to help them, and when they said they did, He gave them sight.

Psalms Passage Provides Theme For First EUB

"Morning Prelude" by Organist Miss Lucille Kirkwood will introduce unified worship service at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Further music includes organ numbers "God is a Spirit" and "Grand Processional"; congregational hymns, "The Church's One Foundation," "Higher Ground" and "Lead On, O King Eternal"; and a church choir anthem, "Unto Thee Will I Call," with Dolores Carley, Evelyn Perdion and Edwin Richardson singing soprano, alto and tenor solos.

Using the scripture from Psalm 66:16, "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what He hath done for my soul," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson will speak from a theme, "A Ringing Testimony."

Concerning this thought, the Rev. Mr. Wilson says: "True religion involves two things, an inward experience of heart and an outward profession through a ringing testimony. The Psalmist had both. He had experimental enjoyment of God in his heart and he was not ashamed to testify to it both by his lips and by his life. The nature of a religious experience is something God has done for the soul."

"The text limits attention to the Psalmist's personal experience of God's gracious dealings with him. It is not what God has done for the world or what he has done for the church of all ages or what he has done for historical individuals; but 'what God hath done for my soul.' This is the only course dictated by respect for God in his dealings with man."

"Further, the Psalmist felt the obligation for declaring to others the things which God had done for his soul. Others must know what he had learned about God. Others must unite with him in praising the Lord for his mercies. Although the foundation of all spirituality is personal, yet there is value in a strong feeling of gratitude for divine blessings which cannot be suppressed and must be shared with others. Such testimony should be voluntary and done in great modesty, in simplicity, in sincerity and in humility."

"There is also the fact that one's relationship to God and his fellowmen should be a communicating Christian experience because man takes interest in the doings of God in the soul and wants to tell what God has done and will do for all people in the light of a personal experience. Such a ringing testimony is not theory but is experimental and practical. There is value in experience and testimony which rings true."

Church School classes will study a Bible lesson entitled "The Compassion of Jesus."

Story In Luke Is Sermon Guide For Lutherans

Worship service in Trinity Lutheran church will be conducted this Sunday by the Rev. George Troutman.

Using the story of the rich man and Lazarus in Luke 16:19-31 as a text, the Rev. Mr. Troutman will preach on the theme, "The Land of Torment Beyond the River of Death."

The pastor says: "Whether this story is a parable or a true life story is immaterial. Of paramount importance are the eternal facts here taught by Christ Jesus concerning the eternal state of one's soul as determined here and now in this one life that we now live."

The Rev. Mr. Troutman points out: "The rich man lived a selfish, self-centered unsympathetic life that is both unchristian and unlovely. He sought only riches, and the pleasures and comforts that they would afford. Never once did he seek to alleviate the suffering, pain and hunger of the beggar Lazarus."

"Each man has but one life to live and choose for Christ—there is no second chance after death. The land of torment beyond the river of death is reserved for those that die without coming to a living faith in Jesus as their personal Lord and Savior."

"Thus it is for us today to heed the call of the apostles and prophets in the Bible and come confessing Christ as Savior from sin and eternal torment."

Church Mission Is Theme For Methodists

"The Mission of the Church" will be the sermon theme presented Sunday during worship service in First Methodist church by the Rev. Robert Weaver.

Emphasis of the sermon will be the primary mission of the church is to help the people to both know more about the person of Christ and to know Christ in the spiritual manner.

Also, the Rev. Mr. Weaver points out this mission is world-wide in scope, a holy crusade for all peoples of all races and countries. If the mission is true for one man, it is true for all men.

Further, the mission of the church is an educational responsibility for every member to learn and practice the teachings of Jesus Christ. Special emphasis will be made during the sermon on the place of peace, with observation of Armistice Day due Tuesday.

Methodist choir will sing an anthem entitled "Hark Hark My Soul," with solos by Charles Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Vaden Couch.

Disciple Theme Planned For Presbyterians

Continuing a short series of sermons on the theme "Steps in Christian Living," the Rev. Donald Mitchell of Presbyterian church Sunday will preach on the invitation of Jesus, "Be My Disciples."

Under direction of Mrs. Clark Will, the choir is to sing an anthem entitled "Rejoice Greatly."

The choir will also lead the congregation in singing the hymns: "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling," "Be Thou My Vision O Lord" and "Lord Dismiss Us."

At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play "Nocturne," "Poem" and "Gloria."

At 2:30 p. m. Sunday, about 250 Presbyterian young people from the 52 churches in the Columbus area will be guests of Westminster Fellowship in the Circleville church.

At this Rally, the Rev. Henry Bucher, associate secretary of the Presbyterian board of Christian education in Philadelphia, will be the main speaker. The public is invited.

Larry Thornton is moderator of the local Westminster Fellowship group, which serves as hosts to the Rally. Don Davis will lead the hymn singing and recreation.

Supper will be served at 5 p. m., and at 5:45 p. m. university students from other countries will lead discussion groups upon "Our Brothers' Keeper?"

At 6:30 p. m., the meeting will be ended with a worship service presented by one of the guest youth groups.

Later in the evening, at 8 p. m., there will be a fireside meeting of the Couples Club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boerner, 558 North Pickaway street, at which time the Rev. Deith Conning, pastor of Brookwood Presbyterian church, Columbus, will speak on "Marriage and the Christian Home." Mr. and Mrs. Wes Edstrom and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Grigg will assist with hospitality.

Lord's Supper Is Theme For Christ Church

Teaching of the apostle Paul in I Cor. 11 will form the basis of a sermon on "The Lord's Supper," to be delivered Sunday during services of the church of Christ meeting at 159 East Main street.

In a review of the lesson, Evangelist Charles Cochran outlines the following points:

"The Lord's Supper was instituted by the Lord himself in the same night in which he was betrayed. It was to be observed by His followers as a memorial institution proclaiming his death till he come again (I Cor. 11:23-25). The breaking of the loaf before eating caused it to be referred to as 'breaking of bread.'"

"The early Christians, in carrying out the commands and examples of Jesus, came together upon the first day of the week to 'break bread' (Acts 20:7). The Jerusalem church 'continued steadfastly' in it, observance (Acts 2:42). We have no apostolic example or precedent for observing it less often than upon the first day of the week."

"It was fitting that the Lord should choose bread, and fruit of the vine in memory of His body and blood. These simple elements are procurable in all parts of the world, and form a more enduring monument than marble or stone. Neither the grinding of the elements or the wearing of time can keep this monument from standing. Only neglect and forgetting the Lord can, and this is the thing that has pulled it down in many places."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 9.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Jesus told a man sick with palsy, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," whereat scribes said He blasphemed. Jesus said, "The Son of man hath power to forgive," and to the man, "Arise, take up thy bed and go into thy house." The man obeyed.

Passing a customs house, Jesus saw a tax-gatherer named Matthew, and said, "Follow Me," and he did. The Pharisees were angry that Jesus went to Matthew's house and ate with publicans and sinners.

A certain ruler came to Christ saying his daughter was seriously ill, and might even be dead. Jesus went to his home, told the hired mourners that the girl was only sleeping. He went to her, took the maid by the hand, and she rose.

Two blind men came to Jesus, saying, "Thou son of David, have mercy upon us." Jesus asked them if they believed. He was able to help them, and when they said they did, He gave them sight.

SHIPPING POLICY

MOST PROSPEROUS OF ALL nations, the United States lags behind most of the rest of the world in the construction of dry cargo shipping for private owners. That point was made by Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts in a speech to the annual convention of the Propeller Club of the United States at Los Angeles.

Senator Saltonstall asserted that of 846 dry cargo vessels building today, not one is being built here for private account, while of 609 tankers only 37 are being built in American yards, and half of them for foreign registry.

In sharp contrast is the revival of merchant shipping in Japan, four lines of which have since early last year attained their prewar level of New York service, with four others to follow within 12 months. A Japan that is not self-sustaining has to buoy up its economy through carriage in part of other nation's cargoes and by manufacture for export of readily salable goods.

New competitors in the field of the world's carrying trade include many small nations, it is pointed out by the National Federation of American Shipping. Of 36 nations, then individually not of serious concern, which had in 1939 a total of 6 million tons in ocean-going merchant ships, the present tonnage has increased to 11.8 million deadweight tons, soon to reach 13 million.

In the last year they have increased their tonnage relatively three times as fast as the recognized maritime nations. Space availability is greatly beyond their own needs and they will be seeking cargoes from other nations at a time of shipping depression.

The United States government has a building program of 35 fast freight ships for use in war, the first of which, the Old Dominion Mariner, was delivered recently. The Maritime Administration will operate the vessel, for which the American President Line will act as agent. Two others of the 35 will be in service in a few days.

What Senator Saltonstall was urging in Los Angeles was that the nation should have a dependable emergency fleet in emergency, yet not owned or operated by the government in time of peace.

These Days

For some months now, the report has been coming here from London that the Earl of Jowitt has been writing a book on the trials and tribulations of Alger Hiss. The report suggested that Jowitt would exonerate Alger Hiss.

Jowitt says he does not know who sent the transcript of the trial to him. Such a transcript would run into tens of thousands of dollars. Yet, he claims that the sender remained anonymous. On the other hand, my own correspondents give me the name of the British journalist who forwarded the transcript which he obviously could not afford to pay for. The book, I understand, will be published in London by Hodder and Stoughton, Ltd., and that an American contract is in negotiation.

These reports, coming from London, provide other details to which reference can be made later. I think that I know who arranged to have the transcript sent over to Jowitt and who helped in the transaction, but I do not yet know who put up the money. That will show up under investigation.

The Earl of Jowitt is a man of distinction. He has been a Labor member of Parliament, Attorney-General, member of the Royal Commission on Lunacy, Solicitor General, Postmaster-General, Lord Chancellor, and was elevated to the peerage in 1951.

His scholarship and experience cannot be contested. That he should have undertaken such a task is astonishing, as what it amounts to is that a British lawyer sets himself to contest the judgment of a federal grand jury, two trials before juries, appeals up to the Supreme Court of the United States and the decision of a federal court in an appeal for a new trial.

If Jowitt can prove that all these juries and all these courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States, were wrong, then the entire judicial system of the United States stands impeached. It will be interesting when this book appears, to see how the British lawyer compares our judicial system with the British and proves that it has denied an American citizen full justice in a case involving perjury over an issue of espionage and conspiracy which had run the course of the statute of limitations.

It is curious that the friends of Alger Hiss should have turned to a British lawyer. Apparently they had exhausted the American bar. It is to be wondered what the British bar would think of an American lawyer intervening in a British trial. What would the British think of an American lawyer intervening in the case of Dr. Klaus Fuchs to prove that he was entitled to give Soviet Russia the secrets of the atom bomb?

Earl Jowitt, although a Laborite, is not regarded as a Left-Winger. He is a man of intellectual substance. His work will be taken seriously by jurists throughout the world. At the age of 67, reading the transcript of the trials alone must have been a stupendous task.

An Allergy Caused by Shoes

By HERMAN N. DUNDEEN, M.D.

THERE are people formerly thought to have ringworm or athlete's foot who are probably suffering from a form of allergy to their shoes.

An allergy or abnormal sensitivity to any special kind of fabric in the clothes is usually not too hard to detect. It can be relieved by eliminating that fabric.

Isn't Suspected

In the case of the shoes, however, an allergy may remain a mystery for some time. People just don't suspect it, because eruptions or rashes on the skin of the feet, while very troublesome, are also quite common. Most people who have any kind of rash on the foot wrongly treat themselves for many months before seeking medical aid.

Of course, the most common skin disorders of the foot are from ringworm or athlete's foot. There is a tendency to blame all such rashes or eruptions on athlete's foot.

Adhesive Material Guilty

Recently it has been shown that many skin rashes that are diagnosed and treated as fungus infections are really due to some form of skin irritation caused by an allergy to the shoes. It seems that the adhesive material in the shoe lining, which is made of a rubbery substance, has caused many cases of foot rash to occur. In one test, patients with rashes of the feet were given a pair of shoes to wear which were identical except that one shoe was not lined with this rubbery adhesive material. The foot in the shoe without the adhesive material did not break out.

When a person has a skin eruption due to shoes, it is usually possible to discover one or more pairs of shoes that seem to be responsible. These are the ones with the guilty material.

More Blisters

As a rule, this type of rash is not just between the toes, as in the early stages of athlete's foot. There are usually many small blisters on the soles of the foot, and the skin is red and watery.

This rubbery adhesive is also known to cause skin rashes in workers who make shoes.

Usually a definite test for this allergy can be made by taking a patch from the lining of the shoe and placing it elsewhere on the skin to see if it causes any allergic reactions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
K. H.: I have been told I have stones in my urinary bladder. Can you tell me something about this disorder?

Answer: Stones in the urinary bladder usually occur following stones in the kidney. They are generally more common in men, and may reach a great size.

Stones may be present in the bladder without giving any symptoms, but the patient may complain about burning and frequency of urination. Blood may be present after the person has finished urinating.

X-rays or an internal examination of the bladder will, as a rule, make the diagnosis of stones definite. Usually, these stones are removed by crushing them with a special instrument introduced into the bladder.

CHAPTER TWENTY

KATHLEEN hadn't known of Denny Rawls' illness when she lay down. Now that was an added worry. If anything should happen to Denny—

She checked the thought, realizing that it would be dangerous to follow it far. But if he was sick, she might be able to do something for him. And if he was well enough, he should know about this stranger from nowhere who, as if he just stepped from a bandbox, and called himself The Sky Pilot.

Rawls answered her knock on his door, and sat sleepily up when she entered the cabin. He was pale and disheveled, but he protested that he was feeling better.

"Something upset me," he said. "I'll be all right." He eyed her sharply. "Is something wrong, Kathleen?"

"I don't know," she confessed. "But I'm uneasy." She explained about DeMoss, and before she had finished, Rawls was on his feet, looking grim.

"Of course we could be mistaken, but I seem to detect an odor of rat here, too," he agreed. "Let's have a look at him."

Schuyler DeMoss's eyes narrowed as Rawls approached with Kathleen. Most of the day had run the course, a bright day of sun and cloudless shadows reaching out from the cottonwoods along the shore. The country had changed during the hours while Rawls slept. The river valley was less broad here, the green wall of vegetation not so dense, allowing occasional glimpses of enticing meadows beyond.

But these were offset by the fantastic nature of the higher hills showing behind rugged bluffs, weird and unbelievable, a succession of badlands which would endure for days as they progressed. Rawls studied them briefly, then turned his attention to the pilot. DeMoss, who had been unaccountably silent, bowed.

"Captain Rawls," he said, "this is a delight to which I long have looked forward, meeting the greatest riverman of them all. I trust that your indisposition is not serious."

Rawls ignored the compliment and question alike, replying with a blunt question of his own. "So you're bald, eh?"

"Bald as an egg, Captain. As a peeled onion. And, though perhaps unjustifiably, vain."

"That part I wouldn't doubt," Rawls grunted. With a quick gesture, he whipped the hat from DeMoss's head. Earnshaw frowned in surprise, and Astrid gasped at the indignity. It was exactly as The Sky Pilot had proclaimed—he had a completely hairless head.

But the removal of his hat seemed to have wrought a transformation in the man. For a moment he glared at Rawls, startled and uncertain, lips drawn back from snarling teeth, turned ugly in a second. Then, giving a violent twist to the wheel, he went into action.

It seemed as incongruous as for a rabbit to turn and fight, and somehow doubly terrible. From nowhere he produced a long-bladed, wicked-looking knife, and he sprang at Rawls with murderous intent. Astrid screamed, Rawls, unarmed, was in the path of a madman, moving too fast for anyone else to intervene.

It happened fast. Astrid closed her eyes to shut out the sight, but Kathleen watched closely, and yet she could scarcely follow it. Rawls did not step back or aside. But his foot shot out, the boot toe struck the pilot's knife arm and bounced it like a rubber ball held short in its jump by a string. The knife clattered on the deck, and Rawls leaped ahead.

Again the little man was like a rabbit, dodging nimbly. He evaded Rawls' clutching hands, reached the side and shot out the boat in a leap, sending the water splashing high. In the same moment the Varina staggered to a jarring shock, throwing everyone on board off their feet.

By the time Rawls could regain his own footing, DeMoss, hairless head bobbing, was nearing the shore. A moment later he splashed through the shallows and vanished amid the undergrowth.

There was no time for him then. The engine was racing, the paddle wheel churning furiously, the Varina quivering like a creature that had received a mortal blow. Rawls shouted down the tube for full speed astern, and twisted at the wheel. But as he had expected, the reversed paddle wheel still beat helplessly. The Varina was hard aground.

"What the devil—" Earnshaw gasped, bewildered by the suddenness of what had happened. "Did he do that?"

"He aimed to wreck us, and no telling yet how close he's come to doing it," Rawls grunted. "Better take a look and see if there are any leaks. And arm everybody on board, fast, with plenty of ammunition!"

Earnshaw took a look at the inhospitable bank, now hardly a hundred feet away, and made haste to carry out the last part of the instructions. Rawls gazed about, revived somewhat by a freshening breeze across the water, one which swept away the mosquitoes that had begun to descend almost as soon as the packet came to a stop. He felt weak and sick from the day of illness, but there was no time to think of himself.

"But how did you know there was anything wrong with him?" Astrid demanded. "He was a white man, and he told a straight story. He fooled everyone else, even Father," she added thoughtfully. "And Mark Whitter. How did you know?"

"That he was a renegade? Three ways," Rawls explained. "First, his clothes. They could only have come from a looted boat or wagon train." "But he explained that—"

"If they'd floated in a box in the river, they wouldn't have been in such fine shape. And then his lack of whiskers—"

"He was smooth-shaven," Kathleen nodded. "And that struck me as queer, that he would have had a chance to shave so closely." "It would have been more than queer. But he wasn't smooth-shaven. He was hairless—with the whiskers pulled out by the roots, the same as the Indians do. That told me he was a renegade who had turned Indian."

"I never thought of that," Earnshaw confessed sheepishly. "But the trouble started when you jerked his hat off. What did that mean?"

"I wanted to see his head, because he didn't want us to have a look at it. Part of it was hairless, all right—where the hairs had been pulled out—but there was a ridge where the scalp lock had been left. He'd done the best he could with that, shaving it close, and it would have fooled most people into the idea that he was bald. The trouble was that, even with a berry stain, it still showed pale compared to the tan on the rest of the top of his head—where, if he always wore a hat, the sun should never touch. When I pulled it off, he knew that the jig was up."

"Then he—he was sent to lure us to destruction!" Astrid felt weak. "But he—he seemed such a gentleman. He used such good English—"

"He hadn't forgotten that, which makes him useful as a stool pigeon," Rawls agreed grimly. "He's the worst sort of renegade—one who turns against his own people all the way, after having had all the advantages. Probably he had a record that would hang him if caught, so he had to go to the Indians. He liked that life, and went all the way."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—"How do you think history will rate President Truman among the men who have headed the government?" asks Mrs. T. F. of Columbia, S. C.

Answer: This is a difficult question to answer for the very reasons Mr. Truman gives with respect to history's evaluation of contemporary statesmen—namely, that a man never gets his due until he has been dead for fifty years or more. Perhaps, like Truman, I should defer judgment.

SECOND-RATER—As of today, however, I believe that Truman would rank among our extremely poor second raters, such as Taylor, Buchanan, Harrison, Harding and Coolidge. In fifty years, schoolboys will find him hard to remember when teacher asks them to give a chronological list of Presidents.

A factual review shows that the Missouriian was responsible for no major social or economic reform, since the Fair Deal was only a continuation of the New Deal. In fact, Truman's mishandling of many of FDR's achievements reacted against them, and most assuredly prevented their extension and expansion.

Had Truman been willing to compromise instead of playing partisan politics with many of these issues, he might have been able to obtain worth while results. I am thinking of such questions as Civil Rights, greater Federal aid to health, education and housing, and labor-management relations. But in all things he preferred to be a politician rather than a statesman. Indeed, he once said "I am a politician and proud of it!"

FOREIGN POLICIES — Truman himself believes that history will honor him principally because of his foreign policies. In view of his contributions to collective security in the face of the Russian menace, he prides himself on being the "defender of Democracy."

However, the Truman Doctrine, the Marshall Plan and Point Four were only extensions of FDR's system of lend-lease and UNRRA. They were neither original nor revolutionary. They simply constituted the organization of a defensive-offensive alliance in a Cold War as deadly and threatening as an actual conflict. They were necessary and obvious reactions against a dictatorship which Truman and his predecessors helped to strengthen.

Historians and politicians may argue and quibble about the causes behind the Soviet's post-war growth and her absorption of more than 600 million people within six years, including nations traditionally friendly to us.

Mrs. Croman Shows Pictures Of Europe At Club Meeting

Mrs. Fred Clark Is Group Hostess

Mrs. Sterley Croman showed pictures of her recent European tour at the meeting of the Pickaway Garden Club, held Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Clark, South Court street.

Thirty-seven members and two guests, Mrs. Ben Gordon and Mrs. George Van Camp were present. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Franklin Kibler, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. Leslie May.

Mrs. Croman's pictures, which were taken by her husband, and Miss Betty McCoy, included scenes of the harbors, ocean cities, farm lands and gardens. The first picture was of New York harbor and Statue of Liberty, and there were also several scenes taken aboard the USS Constitution.

She also showed scenes from Gibraltar, Genoa, Naples, Rome, Florence, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and England.

Of special interest were pictures of Gardens of Versailles, Gardens of Tulleries near Louvre, Swiss window boxes, landscape at Warwick castle, Ann Hathaway's garden and the bulb fields in Holland.

Mrs. Clark presided at the business meeting, during which she announced that a gift exchange will be held at the next meeting, Dec. 12. The meeting has been postponed because of the Association meeting in Cleveland Dec. 5.

Mrs. A. J. Lyle, civic chairman, announced a club project of planting ground cover on the slope, where the mortuary was removed in Forest cemetery.

Prizes in the exhibit for the evening, entitled, "Your Own Arrangement for Fall," were awarded Mrs. Turney Pontius, first; Mrs. John Mast, second, and Mrs. Emmett Arnhart, third. Mrs. Oscar Root took first prize for a specimen of "Fireside," chrysanthemum.

Club Association To Sponsor Movie

"O. Henry's Full House," sponsored by the Pickaway County Association of Women's Clubs will be shown in Circleville at the Grand Theatre, Nov. 19 and 20.

Tickets are being sold by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Child Conservation League, Child Study Club, Daughters of the American Revolution, Junior Women's Club, Monday Club, Pickaway Garden Club and Auxiliary to the Medical Society, which organizations comprise the association. The tickets are good for any one of the four showings.

The picture is made with a dozen top stars from five immortal stories by the American master of the short story, with John Steinbeck to introduce, narrate and bridge the sequences.

The bill opens with, "The Cop and the Anthem," starring Charles Laughton as a bum trying to get to a warm jail for the winter, followed by, "The Clarion Call," co-starring Richard Widmark and Dale Robertson; "The Last Leaf," with Anne Baxter as a talented but sick artist; and "The Ransom of Red Chief," relating the misadventures which pursue a kidnapping undertaken by Fred Allen and Oscar Levant.

Finally there is the well known story, "Gift of the Magi," starring Anne Crain and Farley Granger, who portray a young couple overcome by poverty on the eve of Christmas.

Deercreek Club Conducts Session At Parish House

Deercreek Garden Club of Williamsport met at the parish house, Thursday evening, with sixteen members and four guests present. The guests were Mrs. Lorine Howe and Mrs. Paul Rice of Chillicothe, Mrs. Herman Porter and Miss Suzanne Porter of near Mt. Sterling.

Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clifford Bowser, who presided during the business session. Members answered roll call by giving, "A Timely Hint on What To Do This Month." Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Carolyn L. Bochar and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Fred J. Corcoran. The garden club project for the year was discussed by Mrs. Estella Johnson.

A letter from the "Flower Grower," magazine was read by the secretary offering club members a special offer. Anyone interested is asked to please notify Miss Bochar before Nov. 20. Miss Bochar was awarded a prize.

Mrs. Lorine Howe of Chillicothe was a guest demonstrator for the evening, using as her topic, "Christmas Arrangements." She showed many arrangements and original ideas.

A "Thanksgiving Arrangement," flower show was presented with all members participating. The many arrangements were discussed and comments were given by Mrs. Howe who acted as judge. She was assisted by Mrs. Herman Porter.

Prizes were awarded to the following—Mrs. Bertha Porter, first; Mrs. Estella Johnson, second, and Mrs. William Alspaugh, third.

The contest, which is being held each month of this garden club year, caused much interest among the members. Mrs. Bertha Porter's "Blue" side received twenty points and Mrs. Walter Wright's "Red" side received thirteen points.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. Ted Corcoran, Mrs. Joe West and Mrs. Fred J. Corcoran, Mrs. Jack Hammon.

The next meeting will be held at the parish house, Thursday evening, Dec. 4. This will be the garden club Christmas party with a fifty cent gift exchange. Mrs. Estella Johnson will be program leader for the evening and each member is requested to bring a "Christmas Arrangement" for the flower show. Hostesses for the December meeting will be Mrs. William D. Radcliff, Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Campbell and Mrs. Carl Hunsinger.

Mrs. Loring Evans of 444 East Main street will be hostess to members of Group B of the Women's Association of the Presbyterian church at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday instead of Tuesday.

Clarksburg Group Conducts Meeting

Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Clarksburg Methodist church met with Mrs. Robert Hamman recently. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. C. H. Steinhauer, and Mrs. Roy Chenoweth.

Mrs. A. W. Skinner was devotion leader and her topic was "By a New and Living Way." The Rev. Thomas Taylor arranged the program on the topic, "Take the Church to the People," a discussion of the evangelistic program of the church.

Mrs. Pryor Timmons conducted the business session. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Howard Kelley. Mrs. Timmons read letters from Mrs. George Wilson and the district treasurer, Mrs. T. P. Whitehurst announced a box of supplies had been sent to Dales Community Center at Jacobsburg. Mrs. Timmons reported the society had received a certificate for supply work and promptness in sending quarterly reports.

Mrs. H. E. Ware reviewed an article on Africa. Mrs. McCollister gave a report on the district meeting at Lancaster. Members voted to fix Christmas baskets for shut-ins.

The hostesses served refreshments to 33 members and one guest, Jean McCabe.

Mrs. McCollister announced family night will be observed on Dec. 3. The local church activities committee will have charge of the covered dish dinner. The program will be arranged by Miss Ollie Ater and Mrs. Mary McGhee.

Culture League Members Form Williamsport Club

Members of the Child Culture League met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Curl with Mrs. Marshall Winner, serving as assistant hostess.

It was announced that Mrs. George Neff and Mrs. William Thornton met with a group of Williamsport mothers, Wednesday evening, to form a new club in that community. Mrs. Glen McCoy was named president of the group.

Annual children's Christmas party was announced for Dec. 17.

Mrs. Leo Black was accepted as a new member to replace Mrs. Robert Melvin, who has moved to Columbus. Mrs. Richard Davis replaces Mrs. Melvin as chairman of the social committee and others serving on the committee will be Mrs. Black and Mrs. Thomas Harden.

A panel discussion on, "Mental Illness in a Child," followed. Mrs. Clark Martin served as moderator and others assisting were Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. Marion Good and Mrs. Kenneth Wolford.

It was stated that there are three types of mental illness in a child, namely, organic, glandular and natural. In organic causes there is physical brain damage. In the glandular cases, they stated that there is a deficient function of the thyroid gland and under development of mental, and physical growth and sexual characteristics. They also said that natural cases are caused by disease, injury or parents failure to take proper care of children. They also mentioned a special type of mental deficiency known as monogolism.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assisting hostess at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Richard Davis will be the next hostess at her home on Atwater avenue.

Spring in December, Christmas arrangements will be the theme. Lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Miss Valentine Is Nov. 1 Bride Of Mr. Drake

Trinity Lutheran church was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Valentine of 155 West High street, and Charles Dean Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake of Atlanta.

The ceremony was read Nov. 1, b. the Rev. George Troutman.

A mauve suit was chosen by the bride for her marriage. She completed her outfit with blue accessories, and a small pink hat. Pinned to her jacket was an orchid corsage.

Miss Carol Lee Leist of Circleville, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Walter Hobbie of Atlanta was the best man.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Karl Herrmann.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Valentine wore a gray dress with blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue dress with dark blue accessories and she also wore a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home. Arrangements of red roses were used as decorations and a three-tier wedding cake centered the refreshment table.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Dustin Stinson, Mrs. Joe Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Turney Valentine, Dr. Denton Adams, Miss Carol Lee Leist, Paul Valentine and Miss Norma Jean Valentine.

The Telephone Company

Is A

Good Place To Work"

Have you ever stood at the switchboard in a telephone building and watched the skilled operators putting through their calls? Their arms move quickly, smoothly, and here, indeed, is efficiency in action.

Frequently, some of these girls leave to get married. Other girls take their places. This is called "employment turnover". But even so, "turnover" in a telephone company is comparatively low.

Why?

If you talk to telephone people, they'll tell you the telephone company is a good place to work, and the facts will bear them out. Having a good place to work, getting vacations and holidays with pay, plus pleasant surroundings and other benefits — all this means a lot to telephone employees. It means a lot to you, too.

To you, it means telephone people who provide you with friendly, courteous, and efficient telephone service—service that is high in value, low in cost, and getting better all the time.

Darby, Ashville, And Jackson Win Opens Friday

Ashville Broncos, Darby Trojans and Jackson Wildcats racked up victories Friday night in opening games of the 1952-53 Pickaway County basketball season.

Ashville collected a lopsided 71-57 win over invading Atlanta Red Raiders in its opener. Th Bronco reservists chalked up a 30-25 win.

Darby smothered invading Salt-creek Warriors by a 70-40 margin. Saltcreek's reserves won the preliminary by a 24-22 margin.

And Jackson posted a comfortable 69-53 victory over Scioto's Buffaloes on the Scioto home hard-wood. Jackson reserves completed the evening with a 46-24 win over Buffalo juniors.

Box scores of the games were not made available.

Laurelville
The 49ers (5-1), who lead the National Conference by a game, rule as two-point favorites over the Giants (4-2) at New York's Polo Grounds. The Giants, tied for first place in the American division, have lost two games at home while winning four on the road.

San Francisco, the highest scoring team in the league, hopes to bounce back from a 20-17 defeat at the hands of the Bears last Sunday. Their attack features the running of rookie Hugh McElhenny and Joe Perry coupled with the passing wizardry of southpaw Eddie Albert and Y. A. Tittle.

THE BROWNS, tied with New York's Giants, never have lost to a Chicago club. If they can repeat—and if the high-flying San Francisco 49ers can dump the Giants—Cleveland would have a one-game edge.

Chicago, with a 3-3 record, has pulled two upsets so far this season. They surprised the Chicago Bears, 21-10, in the second game of the season and later upset the unbeaten Giants, 24-23. The Giant game was just a week after New York trimmed Cleveland.

The Cards depend on quarters back Charley Trippi's running and passing and Ollie Matson's galloping for their scoring punch.

Coach Paul Brown expects to use his top runner, Ken Carpenter, and his No. 1 pass catcher, Dante Lavelli, although he doubts they have recovered enough from injuries to be altogether effective. Both missed four entire games and played on parts of the other two. Lavelli has not caught a forward pass all season.

Pro football for Sunday television will be divided into three regional games on two networks, distributed this way: Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland Browns—Dumont 2 p. m., to Cincinnati and Dayton.

San Francisco Forty-Niners at New York Giants—Dumont 2:30 p. m., Columbus.

Green Bay Packers at Chicago Bears—ABC-TV 2:30, to Dayton and Cincinnati.

Bulldogs Score 60-57 Victory Over Deers
New Holland Bulldog cagers opened their 1952-53 Pickaway County league season Friday night with a narrow 60-57 victory over invading Williamsport Deers.

For a season-opener, the game was a real thriller with neither team able to gain more than a six-point edge throughout the 117-point route.

Williamsport banged into a 15-10 lead in the first period of the encounter, while New Holland rebounded in the second stanza to post a 30-29 edge.

The Bulldog quintet added three more points to their lead in the third canto to hold a 45-41 margin going into the final frame, and ended the thriller with the 60-57 victory.

WILLIAMSPORT outscored the host Bulldog cagers from the field, 22-21, during the test, dropping out in the foul lane, 18-13.

Top scorer in the tiff was Kenneth Kirk of the Bulldogs with 22, trailed by Teammate Ted Vincent with 18. High for Williamsport was Bob Metzger with 16.

Williamsport reservists copped the preliminary by a 35-20 margin.

Next test for New Holland will be next Friday at Walnut, while Williamsport's next encounter will be next Friday against invading Pickaway Pirates.

Box score of the Bulldog-Deer thriller follows:

Williamsport

49er-Giants Battle Tops Pro Schedule

Browns To Entertain Chicago Cards, Bears To Meet Packers

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers' powerful offense clashes headon with the rock-ribbed defense of the New York Giants Sunday in a game that spotlights the National Football League card of six games.

Other league attractions include the Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland, Detroit at Pittsburgh, Green Bay at Chicago Bears, Los Angeles at Dallas and Washington at Philadelphia.

The 49ers (5-1), who lead the National Conference by a game, rule as two-point favorites over the Giants (4-2) at New York's Polo Grounds. The Giants, tied for first place in the American division, have lost two games at home while winning four on the road.

San Francisco, the highest scoring team in the league, hopes to bounce back from a 20-17 defeat at the hands of the Bears last Sunday. Their attack features the running of rookie Hugh McElhenny and Joe Perry coupled with the passing wizardry of southpaw Eddie Albert and Y. A. Tittle.

THE BROWNS, tied with New York's Giants, never have lost to a Chicago club. If they can repeat—and if the high-flying San Francisco 49ers can dump the Giants—Cleveland would have a one-game edge.

Chicago, with a 3-3 record, has pulled two upsets so far this season. They surprised the Chicago Bears, 21-10, in the second game of the season and later upset the unbeaten Giants, 24-23. The Giant game was just a week after New York trimmed Cleveland.

The Cards depend on quarters back Charley Trippi's running and passing and Ollie Matson's galloping for their scoring punch.

Coach Paul Brown expects to use his top runner, Ken Carpenter, and his No. 1 pass catcher, Dante Lavelli, although he doubts they have recovered enough from injuries to be altogether effective. Both missed four entire games and played on parts of the other two. Lavelli has not caught a forward pass all season.

Pro football for Sunday television will be divided into three regional games on two networks, distributed this way: Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland Browns—Dumont 2 p. m., to Cincinnati and Dayton.

San Francisco Forty-Niners at New York Giants—Dumont 2:30 p. m., Columbus.

Green Bay Packers at Chicago Bears—ABC-TV 2:30, to Dayton and Cincinnati.

Bulldogs Score 60-57 Victory Over Deers
New Holland Bulldog cagers opened their 1952-53 Pickaway County league season Friday night with a narrow 60-57 victory over invading Williamsport Deers.

For a season-opener, the game was a real thriller with neither team able to gain more than a six-point edge throughout the 117-point route.

Williamsport banged into a 15-10 lead in the first period of the encounter, while New Holland rebounded in the second stanza to post a 30-29 edge.

The Bulldog quintet added three more points to their lead in the third canto to hold a 45-41 margin going into the final frame, and ended the thriller with the 60-57 victory.

WILLIAMSPORT outscored the host Bulldog cagers from the field, 22-21, during the test, dropping out in the foul lane, 18-13.

Top scorer in the tiff was Kenneth Kirk of the Bulldogs with 22, trailed by Teammate Ted Vincent with 18. High for Williamsport was Bob Metzger with 16.

Williamsport reservists copped the preliminary by a 35-20 margin.

Next test for New Holland will be next Friday at Walnut, while Williamsport's next encounter will be next Friday against invading Pickaway Pirates.

Box score of the Bulldog-Deer thriller follows:

Williamsport
Timberlake 22 3 7
Wardell 1 1 1
Metzger 6 4 16
B. Picklesimer 3 3 9
Mowery 1 0 2

Tigers Handed 55-7 Setback By Blue Lions in Final Test

Circleville high school's Red and Black Tiger football team suffered a 55-7 setback Friday night in its final game of the season at the home of the powerful Washington Blue Lions.

But the Tigers, even though on the losing end of the lopsided score, achieved two dubious honors during the contest.

Honors claimed by the Tigers in the test were: 1) They were one of only four teams able to score against the Lions

The Alger Hiss case will probably be with us as long as Hiss lives. A hard core of Hiss's friends seek his exoneration. Some of them firmly believe that he could not have been guilty; others reject the personality and veracity of Whittaker Chambers; others are Communist or pro-Communist and will defend anyone accused of complicity in the worldwide Russian conspiracy. These people will continue to fight for him.

However, the Hiss case, which is only one item in a long record of conspiracy against our country, is fully documented and proved. It needs to be pointed out that this case was processed by the FBI; that it could have been started in 1939 while Hiss was still in the government; that he could have been held on charges other than perjury had the Department of Justice so desired after the information had been laid before Mr. A. A. Berle Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State; that Berle was got out of the way in the State Department and eventually out of the government.

The investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations and of Americans employed in the United Nations by the McCarran Committee is producing additional data and the forthcoming hearings before the Cox Committee of the House of Representatives dealing with foundations will open a new field.

Earl Jovitt has only been sent a fragment of the still growing evidence concerning this conspiracy.

Donor Appeal Due Next Week

Pickaway County Red Cross Blood Bank program officials plan a concentrated drive next week to schedule 150 donors for the Dec. 1 visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville.

The Bloodmobile will be in Circleville's First Methodist church from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. Dec. 1.

Each local organization will be asked to supply a quota of donors for the visit, and each minister of the county is to be asked to encourage donors to register for the next visit.

Donors may register for the visit by sending a postal card or calling the Red Cross headquarters here or by telephoning Mrs. Tom Renick, 756.

Engineers Named For Power Plants

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Chicago and New York firms have been chosen to engineer and design the huge power plants that will provide electricity for the new atomic diffusion plant in Pike County, Ohio.

American Gas and Electric Service Corp. of New York will carry out the principal design work on the 1,200,000 kilowatt power station to be built near Madison, Ind.

Sargent and Lundy of Chicago will perform corresponding work on the million kilowatt generating station to be built near Cheshire, O.

129 Strikes Seen Here In State

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Ohio's 129 work stoppages in the third quarter of this year involved 171,000 workers, the Division of Labor Statistics, Department of Industrial Relations, announced Thursday.

The state agency said 187 firms were involved in the stoppages, which resulted in the loss of 2,660,000 man-days. The loss was equal to about 1.5 per cent of the working time for non-agricultural employment in Ohio, the division said.

Pickaway County 4-H Members Win Chicago Trips, Awards

Extension Unit Gives List Of 1952 Winners

Hundreds Competed In State; All-Year Activities Judged

All-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago were awarded Saturday to two Pickaway County youths and 24 other Ohio boys and girls. The trips are rewards for outstanding achievements in 4-H club work during 1952.

Representing this county in the group will be Charles Brown, 16, of Circleville Route 2, and Barbara Storer, 16, of Orient.

Names of the trip winners were announced by Pickaway County extension service. Selection was made following an extensive review of records submitted by hundreds of boys and girls to the 4-H Club department of the state extension service at Ohio State university.

The state unit also announced the names of 20 Ohio rural youth who won various state 4-H contests and activities during the year, including two from Pickaway County.

Recognition was accorded Jack L. Timmons, 17, of Mt. Sterling, and Barbara Defenbaugh, 18, of Laurelville.

BROWN AND Miss Storer will leave Nov. 30 for Chicago.

Their selection was based on all-around achievement in 4-H activities plus specific accomplishments in the area for which the trip was granted.

Brown was one of 11 youths picked for the trip during the Ohio State Fair, where they placed first in various competition. He was judged the state's "healthiest boy."

Miss Storer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Storer, was awarded the trip honor because of her work in farm and home safety education.

Her efforts were credited with making many Pickaway County farmers safety-conscious and with the development of earlier work accomplished in this field.

Miss Storer gave a number of safety speeches and demonstrations and had a specialty in making safety posters.

SHE SERVED as safety director of her 4-H club, which gave plays with a safety theme, distributed literature and furnished a first aid room in the high school in her home community.

Brown, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, has given health talks in his home township and has also specialized in study of dairy animal diseases. He is a member of the Deer Creek 4-H Livestock club and a senior in Williamsport school.

He gives "good food and common sense" as the best, old reliable formula for good health, stressing the need for regular rest and exercise. Brown, six-foot-one and weighing about 175 pounds, enjoys football and basketball.

Fried chicken, he admitted, is probably the foremost item in mind when he talks of good

Program Arranged For PTA Meeting

An address by Judge William D. Radcliff, a tea for city school teachers and a Cub Pack demonstration will highlight a meeting of Circleville Parent-Teacher Association Thursday night.

Dr. D. S. Goldschmidt, program director for the PTA announced Judge Radcliff will speak on "Americanism."

A tea in honor of the city teachers, an innovation here which may become annual for the PTA group, will be held in the new high school cafeteria.

Arrangements for the tea are being handled by Mrs. Ned Harden, Mrs. Charles Walters and Mrs. David Goldschmidt.

Cub Pack 52 will stage an Indian war dance, using home-made costumes.

Main portions of the program, scheduled for 8 p. m., will be held in Circleville high school auditorium.

food. He does not smoke and sees "no sense" in alcoholic drinks.

At the same time, the county's 1952 health and achievement contest for national laurels emphasizes the merits of normal social activity. Brown said he has a "girl friend" but laughed off the suggestion it is "anything serious."

Youth today, he believes, is more or less the same as the youth of the earlier generations.

"There isn't too much difference," he said. "Today they probably just have fun in different forms."

IN THE contest winner recognition, Timmons was awarded a pocket watch for studies and activities in the meat animal division. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Timmons.

Young Timmons, who has had an outstanding record with meat animals for several years, climaxed his efforts this year at the 1952 Pickaway County Fair.

He was also champion Angus showman at the Ohio State Fair.

Miss Defenbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Defenbaugh, received a certificate of honor for her work in community relations.

She has completed 28 projects in 4-H work, won the citizenship award in her high school and this year became a charter member of the state junior leadership group.

Pfc. Hamilton In 'Warmwind'

Army paratrooper Pfc. Marvin E. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton of Circleville Route 1, has arrived in Alaska for the huge Army-Air Force arctic maneuver, "Exercise Warmwind."

A member of the 503d Airborne Regimental Combat Team of the 11th Airborne Division, Hamilton made the trip from Fort Campbell, Ky., by air. The troop movement, called "Operation Long Haul," was the largest and longest airlift of men in history.

"Warm Wind" is designed to give soldiers and airmen experience in the defense of Alaska. Before the exercise begins, each man will receive a thorough arctic indoctrination to familiarize him with the techniques of survival in extreme cold.

A gunner in Battery C of the 457th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, Private Hamilton entered the Army in 1951.

Right About Ike, Wrong On Himself

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 — Stephen B. Peddicord, hopeful write-in candidate for the U. S. Senate in Maryland, made two predictions two weeks before election.

1. He said GOP presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower would carry 40 states, only one more than he actually did.

2. The Baltimore electrician also predicted that he, himself, would sweep the Senate race in Maryland, winning by 100,000 votes.

The complete but unofficial returns has failed to turn up a single ballot for Peddicord.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES is expected to be the next U. S. secretary of State under President-elect Dwight Eisenhower. Republican Victory Peps Up Morale Of U.S. Businessmen

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — (P)—The election of Republican Dwight Eisenhower has pepped up the morale of many a businessman, but most of them think it will be months before any changes are made that could show up as items of profit and loss on corporate books.

They count on a kinder attitude toward business in Washington. But they expect business to go its present prosperous way for months to come because of forces already at work in the economy.

If Eisenhower, however, could pull a Korean peace out of the hat, there would probably be a quick reshuffling of commodity prices and business planning.

But, with or without peace, after the general moves into the White House and a more conservative Congress takes over in Capitol Hill, many businessmen hope that eventually they will see:

Tax relief, a letup in anti-trust actions, an end to wage and price controls, speedier lifting of controls over the use of raw materials, and greater use of fiscal and credit policies rather than direct controls in fighting inflation or in putting a brake on deflation if and when a slump comes.

BUSINESSMEN think the new government policies will be more deflationary than inflationary. But they think business will be propped for at least a year by a rising rate of spending for defense out of funds already appropriated, and by a continuing high spending by business for new equipment and especially for modernization of plants to cut high operating costs.

Home builders, landlords and firms and associations that finance building hope for public housing to decline sharply under the new Congress.

And they expect interest rates to continue their gradual rise. Rents may also rise in cities that aren't at or near the over-built point.

Many think the new secretary of the Treasury may swing away from reliance on short-term financing and toward middle-term and long-term government bonds, sweetened with higher interest.

Some count on Congress being asked to permit higher interest rates on savings bonds, to move a larger part of the federal debt into more hands. This year sales of E Bonds have been trailing redemptions.

It is widely expected that the excess profits tax will be allowed to die next June. But chances for other tax relief seem slim for at least another year.

Ike Urged Cancel Trip To Korea

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 8 — (P)—Alfred M. Landon and Harry Woodring, both former governors of Kansas, think President-elect Dwight Eisenhower should cancel his proposed trip to Korea.

Woodring, secretary of war in the early part of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration and former Democratic governor, suggested Eisenhower send top ranking representatives instead. Landon, Republican presidential nominee in 1936, said he believes Eisenhower has to keep his campaign promise to go to Korea, but he added that "it is too great a risk for the welfare of the American people for what can be gained by making the trip."

Rancher Sets Up Human Roadblock

FARMINGTON, N. M., Nov. 8 — (P)—A Rio Arriba County rancher really meant it when he refused permission to an oil company to drive trucks across his property without charge.

Rancher E. H. Kaime set himself up as a human roadblock to stop trucks going to a Lowry Oil and Gas Company lease about 85 miles south of here. State officials say the road is on Kaime's property and they can't do anything about the matter.

CD Chief Rapped

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8 — (P)—The Ohio Program Commission's Civil Defense Committee Friday urged removal of chief executive assistant William E. Warner of Ohio's civil defense organization in favor of someone with "more administrative ability."

'No Law' Against Killing Unborn Child

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 8 — (P)—Assistant Prosecutor Harold H. Hull says a bullet fired by Michael Solis killed Solis' unborn child, but he adds that no law can be found making this a crime.

The law, he said, shows an infant is not a person "until it has its own respiratory breathing system." Solis had been accused of shooting his wife, Dorothy, 19, during an argument. She said, however, the rifle was fired accidentally. The bullet struck her unborn baby.

Southern Cabinet Member Expected

Possibly A Dixiecrat Slated For High Post Under Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (P)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to name a Southern—and possibly a Democrat—to his Cabinet in recognition of the unprecedented vote he rolled up in Dixie.

While the general hardly has had time since his landslide victory in last Tuesday's election to make progress toward picking any Cabinet member, friends here said they believe he will make it clear by such an appointment that he intends to deal the South in his administration.

Eisenhower's three top supporters in the South were Governors James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Robert Kennon of Louisiana and Allan Shivers of Texas. None of them may want a Cabinet post, but all might be consulted about the selection of a Dixie colleague.

GOP strategists are looking at the vote polled by the general in Dixie as the possible basis for revival of the Republican Party in an area where it has been only a skeleton organization in the past.

EISENHOWER carried Virginia, Florida, Texas, and apparently Tennessee and these states are regarded as the best bets for starting a rebuilding program.

They also class Louisiana, South Carolina and Arkansas as states where they may have a chance to build Republican strength. They are not too hopeful about Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and North Carolina.

Eisenhower's friends already are looking ahead to his expected reelection contest in 1956.

Some of them argue that unless he keeps the South in the forefront during the interim, he cannot hope to have any such Dixie support in 1956.

These strategists remember what happened to Herbert Hoover in 1932 after he broke the South wide open in 1928 in the battle with Alfred E. Smith.

Significantly, perhaps, Eisenhower picked Dixie for his brief vacation. But his stay in Augusta, Ga., seemed to involve almost as much work as play.

In an exchange of messages with President Truman Friday, Eisenhower said he will send some of his representatives to the State and Defense Departments immediately, as suggested by Truman.

TRUMAN ALREADY had asked for a man to sit in with the budget planners and there were reports here that Elliott Bell, former New York state superintendent of banks under Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, might be chosen for that role. Any such designation would whip up speculation around Bell as a possible choice for secretary of the Treasury.

Eisenhower went ahead Saturday with arrangements to name his representatives for a series of briefing conferences, which may begin early next week at the Pentagon and the State Department.

The names of the men who will act as liaison officers for him have not been announced.

He has been in communication by telephone with his advisers, however, and members of his staff here indicated they believe the talks in Washington can start Monday or Tuesday. In addition to discussions in the Departments of State and Defense, Eisenhower is sending a representative to meet with the director of the budget in connection with the 1953-54 budget.

Eisenhower himself will go to the White House for a conference Nov. 17, Truman said.

Dem Senators See No Fight For Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (P)—Democratic senators show no signs of trying to block the Republicans from taking over control of the Senate when the new Congress convenes Jan. 3.

From their comments it appears that, despite the almost even division between the two parties, a fight over Senate organization is unlikely to materialize.

Sen. Hoey (D-N.C.) said he did not think there would be any disposition among the Democrats to try to prevent the Republicans from grasping the leadership reins, barring some "material change" in the present outlook.

Other Democrats who expressed a similar view included Senators Hunt of Wyoming and Fulbright of Arkansas, the latter one of Gov. Adlai Stevenson's advisers in the presidential campaign.

Barring deaths or vacancies from other causes, the Republicans will have 48 seats in the new Senate, the Democrats 47. The other one is held by Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who declared himself an independent after bolting the Republican Party to support Stevenson.

If Morse should vote with the Democrats, Vice President-elect Richard Nixon would give control to the Republicans.

Actress Advised Anti-Periscope Law Not On Books

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8 — (P)—It all started, actress Christine Larson told the police, when Herbert Kubowitz came to her home to repair some plumbing.

Then Kubowitz bought the house next door, moved in and offered to fix her porch, build her a garage and fix her plumbing—all for free. He was turned down.

Miss Larson, who has more than an adequate figure, added that he then cut down all the shrubbery and "he used to sit and look over here all the time. When I put up a trellis, he put up a spotlight facing my place. I made the trellis higher and then he put up a periscope."

The police informed her there is no anti-periscope ordinance here.

Search Abandoned

MANILA, Nov. 8 — (P)—The U. S. Seventh Air Force has broken off its search for a B-29 Superfortress which disappeared two weeks ago while tracking a typhoon off the Eastern Philippines. The plane carried a crew of 10.

Blind Women Hit By Thug

Pair Is Savagely Beaten In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8 — (P)—Police are looking for a heavy set man who entered the apartment of two attractive blind women as they prepared for bed Friday night and savagely beat them.

Neighbors heard the screams of Nora Yvonne Wigley, 19, and Geraldine Armstrong, 22, totally blind since birth, and scared off the intruder. No one could give an accurate description.

The man entered shortly after the last guest had left from a cooking demonstration being given in the apartment. Miss Wigley gave this account of the attack:

"After everyone had gone we were getting ready to go to bed. I was in a small dressing room when I heard someone come in the front door and Geraldine asked who was there."

"I could tell it was a man by his foot steps. He didn't say anything. Then I heard the light switch click and I knew he had turned the lights off."

"WE THOUGHT somebody we knew was playing a joke on us. Then I heard Geraldine get scared. She said, 'Who are you? Are you trying to play hide and seek? Why don't you say something?'"

Miss Wigley said she heard the man strike her roommate and heard her screams. Then she said, something hit her.

"I put my hands up over my head and he hit me again and I fell to the floor."

Neither of the girls would return to the apartment after the attack. Both said they would spend the rest of the evening with friends.

Western Big Three Powers Book Parleys

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 8 — (P)—Foreign ministers of the Western Big Three powers scheduled meetings in New York this weekend for top-level policy discussions on Korea and other major problems facing the United Nations.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is due to arrive here Saturday to take part in the Korean debate which already is off to a running start in the General Assembly.

The other two ministers, France's Robert Schuman and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, already are on hand. Schuman arrived in New York Friday and Acheson returned to the UN for his first appearance since he went to his Maryland home to vote in the U. S. presidential election.

Eden and Schuman purposely had delayed their arrivals at the UN until after the American voting. Now they are confronted with the fact that Acheson, with whom they have discussed major issues many times before, is in a "lame duck" position as a result of the Republican victory.

As yet, there are no plans for all three ministers to get together around the same table this weekend, but American delegation spokesmen said Acheson had scheduled separate meetings with both Eden and Schuman.

His AUTO was found to be damaged on the right front fender and headlight. Investigation was begun.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Saturday said he was convinced there was enough evidence indicating the Beeman car was involved to merit the accusation.

The accusation was being heard later Saturday by Magistrate Oscar Root.

Air Force Seeks Missing Packet

FAIRBANKS, Nov. 8 — (P)—An Air Force plane which disappeared with 19 men aboard while flying in interior Alaska Friday is the object of an intensive search by 26 planes flying under adverse weather conditions.

The big flying packet, a C-119 from the 435th Troop Carrier Group of Miami, Fla., came to Alaska last week to participate in joint Air Force-Army maneuvers.

New Trial Asked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (P)—A new trial has been petitioned for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, husband and wife facing death as atomic bomb spies, and an attorney has asked permission to file a brief in the case.

City's Campaign On Sidewalks Points Long Finger At County

Said the City of Circleville to the County of Pickaway:

"Your bad sidewalk is showing!"

Dewey Speakman, Circleville city service director directing a drive against faulty sidewalks here, Saturday said local residents have pointed an accusing finger at the county.

They want to know why, if the city is waging a campaign for sidewalk repairs, something isn't done about the sidewalk in front of Pickaway County Courthouse.

"YES, THAT'S right," Speakman said. "A woman called me up the other day about that. She said she nearly broke a leg on bad pavement in front of the courthouse. And she wants the city to do something about it."

"As far as I know, it's the county's responsibility to fix that sidewalk and I'm going to see (County Commissioner) John Keller about it."

"Then he'll probably be over looking at our own sidewalk in front of City Hall!"

Speakman said local residents are still phoning him for advice and help in connection with his warning on overdue sidewalk repairs.

"The cooperation so far has been splendid," he said, "but of course we're going to keep the drive going."

"We aim to have the repairs made, even if we have to take compulsory action."

If property owners don't keep their sidewalks in good condition, he emphasized, the city can step in, make the repairs and put the cost on the property owner's tax duplicate.

Boy Scout Fund Drive Nets $1,600

Pickaway County's 1952 Boy Scout finance campaign has netted only about $1,600 to date.

Henry Reid of Circleville, general chairman of the drive for the Pickaway district, said many solicitors and groups have not yet reported, however.

This year's finance drive began Thursday with an "early bird" breakfast in First EUB church service center. A group of about 90 men attended the session.

Reid said 17 of the solicitors have not yet reported back from the drive and only one local organization has replied to date.

THE CHAIRMAN pointed out, however, that this year's fund drive may miss last year's total of $2,900 by about $300.

"Many people," Reid said, "some of whom would surprise you, just turned us down flat."

A total of 74 workers were loosened on Circleville in the drive. Williamsport's group completed its drive with a total of $146.

Texas-Ohio Gas Line OK Denied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (P)—A Texas-Ohio Gas Co. proposal to construct a pipeline from Texas to a point near Lancaster, O., was rejected Friday by the Federal Power Commission.

The Houston, Tex., firm sought to construct a 1,406-mile, $180 million pipeline to import natural gas from Mexico. It told the commission it would sell all its gas to reserve Natural Gas Co. at the Ohio terminus of the line. But FPC said the company "failed on this record to show that the proposed service, construction or operation is or will be required by the present or future public convenience and necessity."

Punching Topkick Costs Ex-GI $35

FRANKLIN, Ind., Nov. 8 — (P)—Judson Hendricks did what a lot of newly discharged soldiers have dreamed of—he socked his former topkick on the jaw.

Sgt. Jack B. Meyer of Camp Atterbury thereupon filed assault and battery charges against the 20-year-old ex-soldier from Mobile, Ala. Judge Oral Barnett Friday fined Hendricks $35 and gave him a 30-day suspended sentence.

Atom Explosion Claimed 'Runt' By Comparison

'Eye-Witness' Story Is Published By Los Angeles Paper

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 — (P)—The "first eyewitness account of a hydrogen bomb explosion at Eniwetok," carried Saturday by the Los Angeles Examiner, says the H-Bomb makes the A-bomb look like "a runt."

The Examiner's story, written by Science Editor Chris Clausen, says the H-bomb test took place on a small atoll in the Eniwetok group recently. It did not give the date.

"It is likely," Clausen wrote, "that the tremendous unparalleled force of the H-bomb, the world's first, vaporized into gas and dust the atoll, a half mile wide and three miles long, on which the detonation took place."

In Honolulu, two military public information officers claimed Saturday they had no knowledge of any hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific area.

Capt. Harry Cross at Pacific fleet headquarters said he knew nothing of the tests except that they were scheduled for this fall.

MAJ. DOUGLAS Mitchell at the Army's Pacific headquarters said if the tests had taken place, "it's complete news to me."

The eyewitness account of the big explosion, the Examiner said, was furnished by a Los Angeles resident who received a letter from a friend at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific proving grounds. The AEC has kept mum on the scheduled autumn tests.

The blast, the letter writer said, was viewed through dark glasses and "appeared a huge orange ball, which grew larger and brighter until it appeared as if no dark glasses were there at all."

Intense heat was felt almost immediately. The writer continued:

"The ball of fire started to rise and slowly lose its intensity. We took off our glasses and saw water vapor suddenly form around the column. Then it rushed into the base of the column and up, clearing the air so that you could see countless tons of water rushing skyward."

"The column went up and up and finally mushroomed. About three minutes later, the report, like a nearby cannon shot, hit us and was followed by several seconds of dull rumbling."

"Then the mushroom expanded into a free halo, growing with tornado-like speed and reaching nearly over our ship before it appeared to cease growing. Then it appeared to connect itself to the main column by a web of filmy vapor."

"All we could do was stand there and gasp in amazement and awe at the enormous size and force released before us."

"TYPICAL COMMENT from old-timers: 'Holy cow! That sure makes the A-bomb a runt.' And so I saw our first H-bomb explode."

The Examiner withheld the names of both the writer and the donor of the letter.

The H-bomb has been estimated at up to 1,000 times more powerful than the A-bomb. The AEC has announced that the 1951 spring series included tests "contributing to the thermonuclear weapons research," a reference to the intense heat of a hydrogen explosion. Presumably, a small, experimental amount of hydrogen was used at that time.

Ice Cream Offers 4 Jolting Flavors

LONDON, Nov. 8 — (P)—You can get tipsy in Britain on ice cream. Just step up to a bar and order several pints of it in any one of four jolting flavors, creme de menthe, brandy, rum or whiskey.

How much does it take? Well, according to enterprising Peter Fioli, whose firm turns out the icy firewater, it depends on your capacity. Twelve pints of whiskey flavored ice cream produces about the same results as a bottle of whiskey. The ice cream sells for $1.05 a pint.

Man Gets Term

HAMILTON, Nov. 8 — (P)—Dennis Robinette, operator of a now-parked motel in Darlington Park, was sentenced to 90 days in the Cincinnati Workhouse and fined $500 and costs Friday for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

The McCarran Internal Security Committee of the U.S. Senate is digging out some startling facts on the Communist Fifth Column organization in this nation.

But the reports on its findings are not getting wide enough circulation throughout the population.

They ought to be read and studied by every parent and teacher, by every college student and high school senior in the nation. They shed light on an internal conspiracy that, in spite of a growing resentment against it, is still scoring amazing successes in its work to communize America.

Anybody can get copies of the Judiciary Committee's transcripts simply by writing his Congressman or Senator, or the U.S. Government Printing Office.

ASK FOR transcripts of the hearings delving into subversive infiltration. These documents provide the most dramatic reading available in America today.

They bring into the reach of your mind and mind's eye exciting and vitally important episodes in the great human conflict of this age—godless Communism vs. Christianity, Freedom vs. Savery.

A Judiciary sub-committee recently released transcript of testimony taken in its investigation into Communist infiltration of radio, television and the entertainment industry.

The sub-committee said its hearings in this field sought to determine: (1) "To what extent are these media of expression conduits for the poison of godless Communism?" and (2) "To what extent has the Communist fifth column succeeded in worming its way into the centers of public expression." The sub-committee's conclusions, based on its findings, are stunning.

It finds that pro-Communist writers have gained the political control of an organization of 1,500 radio writers who produce 90 per cent of the spoken words heard on all the radio networks of the country.

The committee concluded, further, that this Red stranglehold was being used in some instances to slant news and dramatic shows in a manner to subtly conform to the Communist line and to just as subtly undermine our love of country and its institutions.

An anti-Communist faction of the radio writers' guild is fighting the Red control. Members of this anti-Communist group have been testifying in the Judiciary Committee hearings.

Paul R. Milton, author of 10 books, contributor to such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post and Life, and for the past 10 years a top-flight radio writer, has given testimony clearly exposing the whole body of the danger.

"THE MORE Communist individuals or the Communist element are in control of any element of the broadcasting industry," he told the committee, "to that degree they lend that industry to the dissemination of Communist ideas. . . . This means that the broadcasting industry, through programs, through the publicly expressed attitudes of its personalities, can aid in the dissemination of Communist ideas by means of radio and television. . . ."

"Communist ideas and attitudes may be expressed in the most ordinary dramatic programs by holding up to ridicule the various American ideals of free enterprise, of democracy, of capitalism as we understand it, of American institutions in the shape of our legislative arms; of holding up, for instance, the FBI to ridicule. . . . It is possible for a writer to hold up to scorn an American ideal without in any sense seemingly carrying out a propaganda activity.

This can have the effect of arousing public opinion on a question under an emotional stimulus which has a Communist origin and which is not clear to anybody except close observers of the situation. . . . At times it may be extremely critical for the security of our country."

Paul Milton, who is working among them and has been fighting them for years, believes that Communists should be legally controlled—outlawed. "I hope," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee, "that eventually it will be decided within the framework of American history and ideals, that to be a Communist or to subscribe to doctrines of that nature is treasonable."

Most sober-minded people who know Communism for what it really is feel the same way. Get these Judiciary Committee transcripts and learn why.

Incinerator Kills Greenfield Man

GREENFIELD, Nov. 8.—(P)—Dr. J. M. Byers, Highland County coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death in the death Friday of Howard E. Butler, 25, of Greenfield.

The coroner said Butler suffocated and burned to death when he fell into an outdoor incinerator at his home.

Ringgold EUB Church Project Now Completed

Following months of redecoration and remodeling, East Ringgold Evangelical United Brethren church is now completed and ready for use.

The Rev. Fred Ketner is pastor of the church and plans are being completed for dedication ceremonies to be held Dec. 7.

Members of the Ladies Aid Society furnished the funds for the redecoration. The walls are done in mulberry with white trim and the pulpit and carpeting are green.

Also new is the basement under the church, with seven Sunday school rooms completed. Remodeling started last Spring.

The assaults began after the Central football team whipped Hughes, 47-0, on Oct. 17. Hearings for the 19 Central Vocational youths were continued.

Delegates from the Pickaway County group will go to Columbus next weekend to attend the 33rd annual meeting of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children.

Representing this area will be Mrs. Mae Groome of the county welfare organization and Mrs. Clark S. Alexander, president of Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children.

At least 300 volunteers and professional workers for the statewide Easter Seal programs are expected to attend the two-day session.

Principal speakers will discuss rheumatic fever, muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and other causes of childhood disabilities.

The state society and its affiliated county societies and other co-operating Easter Seal units sponsor medical care and physical training of crippled children. The work is financed by contributions.

Dear Senators: Let The Body Cool

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(P)—This sign, printed in red letters, hangs on the office door of Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz.), defeated in Tuesday's election:

"Not for rent until January 3." Members of the Senate Democratic leader's staff posted the sign, explained that other senators had sent emissaries to look over the office to find out whether the quarters McFarland will vacate on Jan. 3 are in any way preferable to the ones they now occupy.

"We thought they might at least let the body get cold," said one of McFarland's aides.

Estate Tax Set At $21 Million

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(P)—British inheritance tax collectors took a bite of $21,229,933 of the estate of Viscount Portman, who died in 1948.

The death duty, amounting to 75 per cent of the estate of the wealthy land owner, was the second highest levy in recent years in Britain.

The value of the portion of the estate subject to levy was fixed at about $28,280,000 after four years of negotiation.

Illinois Miners Recall Disaster

To Be Popular, European Tourist Need Only Show Common Courtesy

By HAL BOYLE
ROME—(P)—If there is anything an American cannot stand, it is to be disliked. And the feeling he is disliked abroad ruins the visit of many a tourist to Europe.

"You know, they really don't like us over here," one tourist tells another, and adds virtuously: "After all we did for them, too; I just can't understand it."

It is this attitude, of course, this air of bragging look-at-all-we-did-for-you, that is sure to win contemptuous dislike where ever and whenever it is displayed. The ordinary European doesn't like to be regarded as an object of charity; he does not regard Uncle Sam's roving nephews as philanthropists, and in any case he is unwilling to drop dead of gratitude for anybody.

The best way to win friends and influence people in Europe is to avoid taking personal credit for the Marshall Plan, and, if the subject even is mentioned, look surprised and say, "the Marshall Plan? What is it?"

This will endear you forever to all Europeans within hearing. Most of them are weary of explaining why, despite all the good old American dollars poured so generously into their country, it still looks slightly shabbier than the Garden of Eden.

In Italy, as elsewhere in Europe, the Marshall Plan comes in for a lot of ribbing. As we passed a huge apartment project on the outskirts of Rome, our Italian guide explained it was being built with Marshall Plan funds and added:

"No one with hiccups is allowed to move in—for fear he will jar the walls down."

Actually, the average American tourists' feeling he is disliked abroad is generally exaggerated, except in Communist areas. There he is not only disliked; he is actively hated.

The tourist passes unnoticed in the shopping centers or promenade avenues of big Italian cities. But let him stroll down a side street populated by Communist supporters and he cannot mistake the meaning of the black looks in the faces turned his way. To them he is no mere tourist on a vacation; he personifies Wall Street, rampant capitalism, the third world war, and all the other enemy symbols of their propaganda.

You can feel this visible hatred, and it makes you uneasy and depressed, because what can you do about it? Nothing. It gives you a kind of brief hopeless loneliness, to be hated in this unreasoning way, and it takes some of the luster from your vacation.

But with this disturbing exception, France and I have encountered no widespread or general animosity against Americans.

The friendliness with which you are greeted in Europe is measured in exact ratio to your behavior, as it should be. Knowing only a single Italian word—"grazie," which means "thank you"—we traveled happily throughout Italy and met nothing but helpful kindness all the way.

You can have a good time in any land if you take the trouble to learn that one warm word or phrase in its language which allows you to tell a man in his own tongue you appreciate the courtesies he extends you, a stranger.

Contemporary Artists In France Show New Type Of Religious Art

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS—Approach of the Christmas season in Europe tends to stress a religious art issue in France.

In European churches, statues of the Holy Family usually are set up at Christmas time in a manger scene. These scenes are presented in the traditional art form.

Meanwhile, some leading contemporary artists and some churchmen have combined to introduce a new type of religious art which contrasts sharply with the old.

The traditional form was worked out in centuries of painting and sculpture of religious subjects. Christ is almost always painted in white clothing and given a calm but sorrowing face, European in cast. Mary is dressed in blue. Joseph is dressed in brown. Of the group, Joseph is the most nearly Middle-Eastern in appearance. The Christ child is often shown making symbolic signs as an infant.

Contemporary artists have made the greatest change in their pictures of Christ. Their work has been condemned by some bishops and approved by others. In some cases it has been ordered removed.

The changes in the pictures of Christ and in other forms of church decoration have brought blasts from some Christian writers. Monsignor Celso Costantini assailed the free-wheeling modern diversions in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano recently.

On the other hand Fr. M. A. Couturier comes to the defense of modern art. He says the work by Henri Matisse in the church he is decorating at Venice is superb.

This aging artist has taken over the whole decoration of the little church. His line drawings are in black and white. The walls are plain, unbroken expanses. In addition, the colored glass windows are so arranged that they cast their own special patterns on the walls.

Matisse is quoted as saying: "If I had not thought I had a mission, I would not have had the strength to do what I am doing."

He is eightyish and unable to spend much time on ladders. Seated in a chair, he often draws high on the wall with a brush or crayon fastened to a long pole.

Another church at Audincourt has been decorated by three of the most modern of moderns, (Mr.) Joan Miro, Fernand Leger and Jean Bazaine.

At Assy, Georges Roualt's painting of Christ has been the inspiration for a colored glass window by Paul Bony. It is harsh in line and design, but conveys the deep sadness of Christ's passion as do few other more formal, traditional portrayals of Christ.

It is only one of Roualt's efforts to accomplish an aim he set for himself, to paint a Christ so moving that anyone seeing it could not help but believe.

It is pointed out that no one painted a portrait of Christ during his lifetime. Not until centuries after His birth did painters in Christian Europe begin to decorate churches with paintings of the Holy Family.

There were conflicts as to whether Christ was blond or brunet although most often he was shown as a golden-haired figure. The same conflict as to hair coloring arose about Mary, the mother of Christ.

It assures us that when we are willing to receive Him, God provides all the necessary power with which to make the required changes in our attitudes, relationships, and behavior.

Dr. Edward Pruden
First Baptist Church
Washington, D. C.

My favorite Bible verse is found in the Gospel.

St. John 15:7, "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

This is my favorite passage because it answers the heart-hunger of mankind for completeness by promising the Presence and the resources of God's omnipotence. It inspires hope for me in my human weakness and frailty. Moreover, it sets forth a challenging relationship between God and the individual.

Here I learn that if I desire God's blessings and resources then I must fulfill certain requirements and conditions. God's promise is conditional upon my willingness to get into the proper environment and spirit to receive and use His blessings.

This Divine-human relationship which Jesus described when He said, "I am the vine, ye are the branches," is a stimulus to me to measure up to my part of the contract. It counteracts the laxity and laziness within me when I am tempted to shirk spiritual disciplines.

I have tested the promise again and again through the years and I always find that when I do my part God fulfills His promises.

Psalms Passage Provides Theme For First EUB

"Morning Prelude" by Organist Miss Lucille Kirkwood will introduce unified worship service at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Further music includes organ numbers "God is a Spirit" and "Grand Processional"; congregational hymns, "The Church's One Foundation," "Higher Ground" and "Lead On, O King Eternal"; and a church choir anthem, "Unto Thee Will I Call," with Dolores Carley, Evelyn Perdon and Edwin Richardson singing soprano, alto and tenor solos.

Using the scripture from Psalm 66:16, "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what He hath done for my soul," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson will speak from a theme, "A Ringing Testimony."

Concerning this thought, the Rev. Mr. Wilson says: "True religion involves two things, an inward experience of heart and an outward profession through a ringing testimony. The Psalmist had both. He had experimental enjoyment of God in his heart and he was not ashamed to testify to it both by his lips and by his life. The nature of a religious experience is something God has done for the soul."

"The text limits attention to the Psalmist's personal experience of God's gracious dealings with him. It is not what God has done for the world or what he has done for the church of all ages or what he has done for historical individuals; but 'what God hath done for my soul.' This is the only course dictated by respect for God in his dealings with man."

"Further, the Psalmist felt the obligation for declaring to others the things which God had done for his soul. Others must know what he had learned about God. Others must unite with him in praising the Lord for his mercies. Although the foundation of all spirituality is personal, yet there is value in a strong feeling of gratitude for divine blessings which cannot be shared with others. Such testimony should be voluntary and done in great modesty, in simplicity, in sincerity and in humility."

"There is also the fact that one's relationship to God and his fellowmen should be a communicating Christian experience because man takes interest in the doings of God in the soul and wants to tell what God has done and will do for all people in the light of a personal experience. Such a ringing testimony is not theory but is experimental and practical. There is value in experience and testimony which rings true."

Church School classes will study a Bible lesson entitled "The Compassion of Jesus."

Story In Luke Is Sermon Guide For Lutherans

Worship service in Trinity Lutheran church will be conducted this Sunday by the Rev. George Troutman.

Using the story of the rich man and Lazarus in Luke 16:19-31 as a text, the Rev. Mr. Troutman will preach on the theme, "The Land of Torment Beyond the River of Death."

The pastor says: "Whether this story is a parable or a true life story is immaterial. Of paramount importance are the eternal facts here taught by Christ Jesus concerning the eternal state of one's soul as determined here and now in this one life that we now live."

The Rev. Mr. Troutman points out: "The rich man lived a selfish, self-centered unsympathetic life that is both unchristian and unlovely. He sought only riches, and the pleasures and comforts that they would afford. Never once did he seek to alleviate the suffering, pain and hunger of the beggar Lazarus."

"Each man has but one life to live and chose for Christ—there is no second chance after death. The land of torment beyond the river of death is reserved for those that die without coming to a living faith in Jesus as their personal Lord and Savior."

"Thus it is for us today to heed the call of the apostles and prophets in the Bible and come confessing Christ as Savior from sin and eternal torment."

Church Mission Is Theme For Methodists

"The Mission of the Church" will be the sermon theme presented Sunday during worship service in First Methodist church by the Rev. Robert Weaver.

Emphasis of the sermon will be the primary mission of the church is to help the people to both know more about the person of Christ and to know Christ in the spiritual manner.

Also, the Rev. Mr. Weaver points out this mission is world-wide in scope, a holy crusade for all peoples of all races and countries. If the mission is true for one man, it is true for all men.

Further, the mission of the church is an educational responsibility for every member to learn and practice the teachings of Jesus Christ. Special emphasis will be made during the sermon on the place of peace, with observation of Armistice Day due Tuesday.

Methodist choir will sing an anthem, entitled "Hark Hark My Soul," with solos by Charles Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Vaden Couch. Miss Jeannette Wenrich will be guest organist this Sunday. She will play "Suite Gothique," "Angels' Serenade" and "Postludium."

The Compassion of Jesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 9.

Jesus told a man sick with palsy, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," whereat scribes said He blasphemed. Jesus said, "The Son of man hath power to forgive," and to the man, "Arise, take up thy bed and go into thy house." The man obeyed.

Passing a customs house, Jesus saw a tax-gatherer named Matthew, and said, "Follow Me," and he did. The Pharisees were angry that Jesus went to Matthew's house and ate with publicans and sinners.

A certain ruler came to Christ saying his daughter was seriously ill, and might even be dead. Jesus went to his home, told the hired mourners that the girl was only sleeping. He went to her, took the maid by the hand, and she rose.

Two blind men came to Jesus, saying, "Thou son of David, have mercy upon us." Jesus asked them if they believed. He was able to help them, and when they said they did, He gave them sight.

SHIPPING POLICY

MOST PROSPEROUS OF ALL nations, the United States lags behind most of the rest of the world in the construction of dry cargo shipping for private owners. That point was made by Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts in a speech to the annual convention of the Propeller Club of the United States at Los Angeles.

Senator Saltonstall asserted that of 846 dry cargo vessels building today, not one is being built here for private account, while of 609 tankers only 37 are being built in American yards, and half of them for foreign registry.

In sharp contrast is the revival of merchant shipping in Japan, four lines of which have since early last year attained their prewar level of New York service, with four others to follow within 12 months. A Japan that is not self-sustaining has to buoy up its economy through carriage in part of other nation's cargoes and by manufacture for export of readily salable goods.

New competitors in the field of the world's carrying trade include many small nations, it is pointed out by the National Federation of American Shipping. Of 36 nations, then individually not of serious concern, which had in 1939 a total of 6 million tons in ocean-going merchant ships, the present tonnage has increased to 11.8 million deadweight tons, soon to reach 13 million.

In the last year they have increased their tonnage relatively three times as fast as the recognized maritime nations. Space availability is greatly beyond their own needs and they will be seeking cargoes from other nations at a time of shipping depression.

The United States government has a building program of 35 fast freight ships for use in war, the first of which, the Old Dominion Mariner, was delivered recently. The Maritime Administration will operate the vessel, for which the American President Line will act as agent. Two others of the 35 will be in service in a few days.

What Senator Saltonstall was urging in Los Angeles was that the nation should have a dependable emergency fleet in emergency, yet not owned or operated by the government in time of peace.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

For some months now, the report has been coming here from London that the Earl of Jowitt has been writing a book on the trials and tribulations of Alger Hiss. The report suggested that Jowitt would exonerate Alger Hiss.

Jowitt says he does not know who sent the transcript of the trial to him. Such a transcript would run into tens of thousands of dollars. Yet, he claims that the sender remained anonymous. On the other hand, my own correspondents give me the name of the British journalist who forwarded the transcript which he obviously could not afford to pay for. The book, I understand, will be published in London by Hodder and Stoughton, Ltd., and that an American contract is in negotiation.

These reports, coming from London, provide other details to which reference can be made later. I think that I know who arranged to have the transcript sent over to Jowitt and who helped in the transaction, but I do not yet know who put up the money. That will show up under investigation.

The Earl of Jowitt is a man of distinction. He has been a Labor member of Parliament, Attorney-General, member of the Royal Commission on Lunacy, Solicitor General, Postmaster-General, Lord Chancellor, and was elevated to the peerage in 1951.

His scholarship and experience cannot be contested. That he should have undertaken such a task is astonishing, as what it amounts to is that a British lawyer sets himself to contest the judgment of a federal grand jury, two trials before juries, appeals up to the Supreme Court of the United States and the decision of a federal court in an appeal for a new trial.

If Jowitt can prove that all these juries and all these courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States, were wrong, then the entire judicial system of the United States stands impeached. It will be interesting when this book appears, to see how the British lawyer compares our judicial system with the British and proves that it has denied an American citizen full justice in a case involving perjury over an issue of espionage and conspiracy which had run the course of the statute of limitations.

It is curious that the friends of Alger Hiss should have turned to a British lawyer. Apparently they had exhausted the American bar. It is to be wondered what the British bar would think of an American lawyer intervening in a British trial. What would the British think of an American lawyer intervening in the case of Dr. Klaus Fuchs to prove that he was entitled to give Soviet Russia the secrets of the atom bomb?

Earl Jowitt, although a Laborite, is not regarded as a Left-Winger. He is a man of intellectual substance. His work will be taken seriously by jurists throughout the world. At the age of 67, reading the transcript of the trials alone must have been a stupendous task.

DIET AND HEALTH

An Allergy Caused by Shoes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE are people formerly thought to have ringworm or athlete's foot who are probably suffering from a form of allergy to their shoes.

An allergy or abnormal sensitivity to any special kind of fabric in the clothes is usually not too hard to detect. It can be relieved by eliminating that fabric.

Isn't Suspected

In the case of the shoes, however, an allergy may remain a mystery for some time. People just don't suspect it, because eruptions or rashes on the skin of the feet, while very troublesome, are also quite common. Most people who have any kind of rash on the foot wrongly treat themselves for many months before seeking medical aid.

Of course, the most common skin disorders of the foot are from ringworm or athlete's foot. There is a tendency to blame all such rashes or eruptions on athlete's foot.

Adhesive Material Guilty
Recently it has been shown that many skin rashes that are diagnosed and treated as fungus infections are really due to some form of skin irritation caused by an allergy to the shoes. It seems that the adhesive material in the shoe lining, which is made of a rubbery substance, has caused many cases of foot rash to occur.

In one test, patients with rashes of the feet were given a pair of shoes to wear which were identical except that one shoe was not lined with this rubbery adhesive material. The foot in the shoe without the adhesive material did not break out.

When a person has a skin eruption due to shoes, it is usually possible to discover one or more pairs of shoes that seem to be responsible. These are the ones with the guilty material.

More Blisters

As a rule, this type of rash is not just between the toes, as in the early stages of athlete's foot. There are usually many small blisters on the soles of the foot, and the skin is red and watery.

This rubbery adhesive is also known to cause skin rashes in workers who make shoes.

Usually a definite test for this allergy can be made by taking a patch from the lining of the shoe and placing it elsewhere on the skin to see if it causes any allergic reactions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

K. H. I have been told I have stones in my urinary bladder. Can you tell me something about this disorder?
Answer: Stones in the urinary bladder usually occur following stones in the kidney. They are generally more common in men, and may reach a great size.

Stones may be present in the bladder without giving any symptoms, but the patient may complain about burning and frequency of urination. Blood may be present after the person has finished urinating.

X-rays or an internal examination of the bladder will, as a rule, make the diagnosis of stones definite. Usually, these stones are removed by crushing them with a special instrument introduced into the bladder.

CHAPTER TWENTY

KATHLEEN hadn't known of Denny Rawls' illness when she lay down. Now that was an added worry. If anything should happen to Denny—

She checked the thought, realizing that it would be dangerous to follow it far. But if he was sick, she might be able to do something for him. And if he was well enough, he should know about this stranger from nowhere who, emerging from a wilderness, looked as if he just stepped from a bandbox, and called himself The Sky Pilot.

Rawls answered her knock on his door, and sat sleepily up when she entered the cabin. He was pale and disheveled, but he protested that he was feeling better.

"Something upset me," he said. "I'll be all right." He eyed her sharply. "Is something wrong, Kathleen?"

"I don't know," she confessed. "But I'm uneasy." She explained about DeMoss, and before she had finished, Rawls was on his feet, looking grim.

"Of course we could be mistaken, but I seem to detect an odor of rat here, too," he agreed. "Let's have a look at him."

Schuyler DeMoss's eyes narrowed as Rawls approached with Kathleen. Most of the day had run its course, a bright day of sun and cloudless shadows reaching out from the cottonwoods along the shore. The country had changed during the hours while Rawls slept. The river valley was less broad here, the green wall of vegetation not so dense, allowing occasional glimpses of enticing meadows beyond.

But these were offset by the fantastic nature of the higher hills showing behind—rugged bluffs, weird and unbelievable, a succession of badlands which would endure for days as they progressed. Rawls studied them briefly, then turned his attention to the pilot. DeMoss, who had been unaccountably silent, bowed.

"Captain Rawls," he said, "this is a delight to which I long have looked forward, meeting the greatest riverman of them all. I trust that your indisposition is not serious?"

Rawls ignored the compliment and question alike, replying with a blunt question of his own. "So you're bald, eh?"

"Bald as an egg, Captain. As a peeled onion. And, though perhaps unjustifiably, vain."

"That part I wouldn't doubt," Rawls grunted. With a quick gesture, he whipped the hat from DeMoss's head. Earnshaw frowned in surprise, and Astrid gasped at the indignity. It was exactly as The Sky Pilot had proclaimed—he had a completely hairless head.

But the removal of his hat seemed to have wrought a transformation in the man. For a moment he glared at Rawls, startled and uncertain, lips drawn back from snarling teeth, turned ugly in a second. Then, giving a violent twist to the wheel, he went into action.

It seemed as incongruous as for a rabbit to turn and fight, and he sprang at Rawls with murderous intent. Astrid screamed, Rawls, unarmed, was in the path of a madman, moving too fast for anyone else to intervene.

It happened fast. Astrid closed her eyes to shut out the sight, but Kathleen watched closely, and yet she could scarcely follow it. Rawls did not stop back or aside. But his foot shot out, the boot toe struck the pilot's knife arm and bounced it like a rubber ball held short in its jump by a string. The knife clattered on the deck, and Rawls leaped ahead.

Again the little man was like a rabbit, dodging nimbly. He evaded Rawls' clutching hands, reached the side and was off the boat in a leap, sending the water splashing high. In the same moment the Varina staggered to a jarring shock, throwing everyone on board off their feet.

By the time Rawls could regain his own footing, DeMoss, hairless head bobbing, was nearing the shore. A moment later he splashed through the shallows and vanished amid the undergrowth.

There was no time for him then. The engine was racing, the paddle wheel churning furiously, the Varina quivering like a creature that had received a mortal blow. Rawls shouted down the tube for full speed astern, and twisted at the wheel. But as he had expected, the reversed paddle wheel still beat helplessly. The Varina was hard aground.

"What the devil—" Earnshaw gasped, bewildered by the suddenness of what had happened. "Did he do that?"

"He aimed to wreck us, and no telling yet how close he's come to doing it," Rawls grunted. "Better take a look and see if there are any leaks. And arm everybody on board, fast, with plenty of ammunition!"

Earnshaw took a look at the inhospitable bank, now hardly a hundred feet away, and made haste to carry out the last part of the instructions. Rawls gazed about, revived somewhat by a freshening breeze across the water, one which swept away the mosquitoes that had begun to descend almost as soon as the packet came to a stop. He felt weak and sick from the day of illness, but there was no time to think of himself.

"But how did you know there was anything wrong with him?" Astrid demanded. "He was a white man, and he told a straight story. He fooled everyone else, even Father," she added thoughtfully. "And Mark Whitter. How did you know?"

"That he was a renegade? Three ways," Rawls explained. "First, his clothes. They could only have come from a looted boat or wagon train."

"But he explained that—" "If they'd floated in a box in the river, they wouldn't have been in such fine shape. And then his lack of whiskers—"

"He was smooth-shaven," Kathleen nodded. "And that struck me as queer, that he would have had a chance to shave so closely."

"It would have been more than queer. But he wasn't smooth-shaven. He was hairless—with the whiskers pulled out by the roots, the same as the Indians do. That told me that he was a renegade who had turned Indian."

"I never thought of that," Earnshaw confessed sheepishly. "But the trouble started when you jerked his hat off. What did that mean?"

"I wanted to see his head, because he didn't want us to have a look at it. Part of it was hairless, all right—where the hairs had been pulled out—but there was a ridge where the scalp lock had been left. He'd done the best he could with that, shaving it close, and it would have fooled most people into the idea that he was bald. The trouble was that, even with a berry stain, it still showed pale compared to the tan on the rest of the top of his head—where, if he always wore a hat, the sun should never touch. When I pulled it off, he knew that the jig was up."

"Then he—he was sent to lure us to destruction!" Astrid felt weak. "But he—he seemed such a gentleman. He used such good English—"

"He hadn't forgotten that, which makes him useful as a stool pigeon," Rawls agreed grimly. "He's the worst sort of renegade—one who turns against his own people all the way, after having had all the advantages. Probably he had a record that would hang him if caught, so he had to go to the Indians. He liked that life, and went all the way."

Mrs. Croman Shows Pictures Of Europe At Club Meeting

Mrs. Fred Clark Is Group Hostess
 Mrs. Sterley Croman showed pictures of her recent European tour at the meeting of the Pickaway Garden Club, held Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Clark, South Court street.
 Thirty-seven members and two guests, Mrs. Ben Gordon and Mrs. George Van Camp were present. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Franklin Kibler, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. Leslie May.
 Mrs. Croman's pictures, which were taken by her husband, and Miss Betty McCoy, included scenes of the harbors, ocean cities, farm lands and gardens. The first picture was of New York harbor and Statue of Liberty, and there were also several scenes taken aboard the USS Constitution.
 She also showed scenes from Gibraltar, Genoa, Naples, Rome, Florence, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and England.
 On special interest were pictures of Gardens of Versailles, Gardens of Tulleries near Louvre, Swiss window boxes, landscape at Warwick castle, Ann Hathaway's garden and the bulb fields in Holland.
 Mrs. Clark presided at the business meeting, during which she announced that a gift exchange will be held at the next meeting, Dec. 12. The meeting has been postponed because of the Association meeting in Cleveland Dec. 5.
 Mrs. A. J. Lyle, civic chairman, announced a club project of planting ground cover on the slope, where the mortuary was removed in Forest cemetery.
 Prizes in the exhibit for the evening, entitled, "Your Own Arrangement for Fall," were awarded Mrs. Turney Pontius, first; Mrs. John Mast, second, and Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, third. Mrs. Oscar Root took first prize for a specimen of "Fireside," chrysanthemum.

Club Association To Sponsor Movie

"O. Henry's Full House," sponsored by the Pickaway County Association of Women's Clubs will be shown in Circleville at the Grand Theatre, Nov. 19 and 20.
 Tickets are being sold by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Child Conservation League, Child Study Club, Daughters of the American Revolution, Junior Women's Club, Monday Club, Pickaway Garden Club and Auxiliary to the Medical Society, which organizations comprise the association. The tickets are good for any one of the four showings.
 The picture is made with a dozen top stars from five immortal stories by the American master of the short story, with John Steinbeck to introduce, narrate and bridge the sequences.
 The bill opens with, "The Cop and the Anthem," starring Charles Laughton as a bum trying to get to a warm jail for the winter, followed by, "The Clarion Call," co-starring Richard Widmark and Dale Robertson; "The Last Leaf," with Anne Baxter as a talented but sick artist; and "The Ransom of Red Chief," relating the misadventures which pursue a kidnapping undertaken by Fred Allen and Oscar Levant.
 Finally there is the well known story, "Gift of the Magi," starring Anne Crain and Farley Granger, who portray a young couple overcome by poverty on the eve of Christmas.

Deercreek Club Conducts Session At Parish House

Deercreek Garden Club of Williamsport met at the parish house, Thursday evening, with sixteen members and four guests present. The guests were Mrs. Lorine Howe and Mrs. Paul Rice of Chillicothe, Mrs. Herman Porter and Miss Suzanne Porter of near Mt. Sterling.
 Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clifford Bowser, who presided during the business session. Members answered roll call by giving, "A Timely Hint on What To Do This Month." Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Carolyn L. Bochard and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Fred J. Corcoran. The garden club project for the year was discussed by Mrs. Estella Johnson.
 A letter from the "Flower Grower," magazine was read by the secretary offering club members a special offer. Anyone interested is asked to notify Miss Bochard before Nov. 20. Miss Bochard was awarded a prize.
 Mrs. Lorine Howe of Chillicothe was a guest demonstrator for the evening, using as her topic, "Christmas Arrangements." She showed many arrangements and original ideas.
 A "Thanksgiving Arrangement," flower show was presented with all members participating. The many arrangements were discussed and comments were given by Mrs. Howe who acted as judge. She was assisted by Mrs. Herman Porter.
 Prizes were awarded to the following—Mrs. Bertha Porter, first; Mrs. Estella Johnson, second, and Mrs. William Alspaugh, third.
 The contest, which is being held each month of this garden club year, caused much interest among the members. Mrs. Bertha Porter's "Blue" side received twenty points and Mrs. Walter Wright's "Red" side received thirteen points.
 During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. Ted Corcoran, Mrs. Joe West and Mrs. Fred J. Corcoran, Mrs. Jack Hammon.
 The next meeting will be held at the parish house, Thursday evening, Dec. 4. This will be the garden club Christmas party with a fifty cent gift exchange. Mrs. Estella Johnson will be program leader for the evening and each member is requested to bring a "Christmas Arrangement" for the flower show. Hostesses for the December meeting will be Mrs. William D. Radcliff, Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Campbell and Mrs. Carl Hunsinger.

Culture League Members Form Williamsport Club

Members of the Child Culture League met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Curl with Mrs. Marshall Winner, serving as assistant hostess.
 It was announced that Mrs. George Neff and Mrs. William Thornton met with a group of Williamsport mothers, Wednesday evening, to form a new club in that community. Mrs. Glen McCoy was named president of the group.
 Annual children's Christmas party was announced for Dec. 17.
 Mrs. Leo Black was accepted as a new member to replace Mrs. Robert Melvin, who has moved to Columbus. Mrs. Richard Davis replaces Mrs. Melvin as chairman of the social committee and others serving on the committee will be Mrs. Black and Mrs. Thomas Harden.
 A panel discussion on, "Mental Illness in a Child," followed. Mrs. Clark Martin served as moderator and others assisting were Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. Marion Good and Mrs. Kenneth Wolford.
 It was stated that there are three types of mental illness in a child, namely, organic, glandular and natural. In organic causes there is physical brain damage. In the glandular cases, they stated that there is a deficient function of the thyroid gland and under development of mental, and physical growth and sexual characteristics. They also said that natural cases are caused by disease, injury or parents failure to take proper care of children. They also mentioned a special type of mental deficiency known as monogolism.
 Refreshments were served by the hostess and assisting hostess at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Richard Davis will be the next hostess at her home on Atwater avenue.

 If you talk to telephone people, they'll tell you the telephone company is a good place to work, and the facts will bear them out. Having a good place to work, getting vacations and holidays with pay, plus pleasant surroundings and other benefits — all this means a lot to telephone employees. It means a lot to you, too.
 To you, it means telephone people who provide you with friendly, courteous, and efficient telephone service—service that is high in value, low in cost, and getting better all the time.

Miss Valentine Is Nov. 1 Bride Of Mr. Drake

Trinity Lutheran church was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Valentine of 155 West High street, and Charles Dean Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake of Atlanta.
 The ceremony was read Nov. 1, by the Rev. George Troutman.
 A mauve suit was chosen by the bride for her marriage. She completed her outfit with blue accessories, and a small pink hat. Pinned to her jacket was an orchid corsage.
 Miss Carol Lee Leist of Circleville, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.
 Walter Hobbie of Atlanta was the best man.
 A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Karl Herrmann.
 For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Valentine wore a gray dress with blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue dress with dark blue accessories and she also wore a corsage of red roses.
 Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home. Arrangements of red roses were used as decorations and a three-tier wedding cake centered the refreshment table.
 Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Dustin Stinson, Mrs. Joe Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Turney Valentine, Dr. Denton Adams, Miss Carol Lee Leist, Paul Valentine and Miss Norma Jean Valentine.

Mrs. Sterley Croman showed pictures of her recent European tour at the meeting of the Pickaway Garden Club, held Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Clark, South Court street.
 Thirty-seven members and two guests, Mrs. Ben Gordon and Mrs. George Van Camp were present. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Franklin Kibler, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. Leslie May.
 Mrs. Croman's pictures, which were taken by her husband, and Miss Betty McCoy, included scenes of the harbors, ocean cities, farm lands and gardens. The first picture was of New York harbor and Statue of Liberty, and there were also several scenes taken aboard the USS Constitution.
 She also showed scenes from Gibraltar, Genoa, Naples, Rome, Florence, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and England.
 On special interest were pictures of Gardens of Versailles, Gardens of Tulleries near Louvre, Swiss window boxes, landscape at Warwick castle, Ann Hathaway's garden and the bulb fields in Holland.
 Mrs. Clark presided at the business meeting, during which she announced that a gift exchange will be held at the next meeting, Dec. 12. The meeting has been postponed because of the Association meeting in Cleveland Dec. 5.
 Mrs. A. J. Lyle, civic chairman, announced a club project of planting ground cover on the slope, where the mortuary was removed in Forest cemetery.
 Prizes in the exhibit for the evening, entitled, "Your Own Arrangement for Fall," were awarded Mrs. Turney Pontius, first; Mrs. John Mast, second, and Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, third. Mrs. Oscar Root took first prize for a specimen of "Fireside," chrysanthemum.

49er-Giants Battle Tops Pro Schedule

Browns To Entertain Chicago Cards, Bears To Meet Packers

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — (P)—The San Francisco 49ers' powerful offense clashes headon with the rock-ribbed defense of the New York Giants Sunday in a game that spotlights the National Football League card of six games.

Other league attractions include the Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland, Detroit at Pittsburgh, Green Bay at Chicago Bears, Los Angeles at Dallas and Washington at Philadelphia.

The 49ers (5-1), who lead the National Conference by a game, rule as two-point favorites over the Giants (4-2) at New York's Polo Grounds. The Giants, tied for first place in the American division, have lost two games at home while winning four on the road.

San Francisco, the highest scoring team in the league, hopes to bounce back from a 20-17 defeat at the hands of the Bears last Sunday. Their attack features the running of rookie Hugh McElhenny and Joe Perry coupled with the passing wizardry of southpaw Eddie Albert and Y. A. Tittle.

THE BROWNS, tied with New York's Giants, never have lost to a Chicago club. If they can repeat — and if the high-flying San Francisco 49ers can dump the Giants — Cleveland would have a one-game edge.

Chicago, with a 3-3 record, has pulled two upsets so far this season. They surprised the Chicago Bears, 21-10, in the second game of the season and later upset the unbeaten Giants, 24-23. The Giant game was just a week after New York trimmed Cleveland.

The Cards depend on quarters back Charley Trippi's running and passing and Ollie Matson's galloping for their scoring punch.

Coach Paul Brown expects to use his top runner, Ken Carpenter, and his No. 1 pass catcher, Dante Lavelli, although he doubts they have recovered enough from injuries to be altogether effective. Both missed four entire games and played on parts of the other two. Lavelli has not caught a forward pass all season.

Pro football for Sunday television will be divided into three regional games on two networks, distributed this way: Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland Browns—Dumont 2 p. m., to Cincinnati and Dayton. San Francisco Forty-Niners at New York Giants—Dumont 2:30 p. m., Columbus.

Green Bay Packers at Chicago Bears—ABC-TV 2:30, to Dayton and Cincinnati.

Bulldogs Score 60-57 Victory Over Deers

New Holland Bulldog cagers opened their 1952-53 Pickaway County league season Friday night with a narrow 60-57 victory over invading Williamsport Deers.

For a season-opener, the game was a real thriller with neither team able to gain more than a six-point edge throughout the 117-point route.

Williamsport banged into a 15-10 lead in the first period of the encounter, while New

The Alger Hiss case will probably be with us as long as Hiss lives. A hard core of Hiss's friends seek his exoneration. Some of them firmly believe that he could not have been guilty; others reject the personality and veracity of Whittaker Chambers; others are Communist or pro-Communist and will defend anyone accused of complicity in the world-wide Russian conspiracy. These people will continue to fight for him.

However, the Hiss case, which is only one item in a long record of conspiracy against our country, is fully documented and proved. It needs to be pointed out that this case was processed by the FBI; that it could have been started in 1939 while Hiss was still in the government; that he could have been held on charges other than perjury had the Department of Justice so desired after the information had been laid before Mr. A. A. Berle Jr., then Assistant Secretary of State; that Berle was got out of the way in the State Department, and eventually out of the government.

The investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations and of Americans employed in the United Nations by the McCarran Committee is producing additional data and the forthcoming hearings before the Cox Committee of the House of Representatives dealing with foundations will open a new field.

Earl Jowitt has only been sent a fragment of the still growing evidence concerning this conspiracy.

Donor Appeal Due Next Week

Pickaway County Red Cross Blood Bank program officials plan a concentrated drive next week to schedule 150 donors for the Dec. 1 visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville.

The Bloodmobile will be in Circleville's First Methodist church from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. Dec. 1. Each local organization will be asked to supply a quota of donors for the visit, and each minister of the county is to be asked to encourage donors to register for the next visit.

Donors may register for the visit by sending a postal card or calling the Red Cross headquarters here or by telephoning Mrs. Tom Renick, 756.

Engineers Named For Power Plants

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Chicago and New York firms have been chosen to engineer and design the huge power plants that will provide electricity for the new atomic diffusion plant in Pike County, Ohio.

American Gas and Electric Service Corp. of New York will carry out the principal design work on the 1,200,000 kilowatt power station to be built near Madison, Ind.

Sargent and Lundy of Chicago will perform corresponding work on the million kilowatt generating station to be built near Cheshire, O.

129 Strikes Seen Here In State

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Ohio's 129 work stoppages in the third quarter of this year involved 171,000 workers, the Division of Labor Statistics, Department of Industrial Relations, announced Thursday.

The state agency said 187 firms were involved in the stoppages, which resulted in the loss of 2,660,000 man-days. The loss was equal to about 1.5 per cent of the working time for non-agricultural employment in Ohio, the division said.

Pickaway County 4-H Members Win Chicago Trips, Awards

Extension Unit Gives List Of 1952 Winners

Hundreds Competed In State; All-Year Activities Judged

All-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago were awarded Saturday to two Pickaway County youths and 24 other Ohio boys and girls. The trips are rewards for outstanding achievements in 4-H club work during 1952.

Representing this county in the group will be Charles Brown, 16, of Circleville Route 2, and Barbara Storer, 16, of Orient.

Names of the trip winners were announced by Pickaway County extension service. Selection was made following an extensive review of records submitted by hundreds of boys and girls to the 4-H Club department of the state extension service at Ohio State university.

The state unit also announced the names of 20 Ohio rural youth who won various state 4-H contests and activities during the year, including two from Pickaway County.

Recognition was accorded Jack L. Timmons, 17, of Mt. Sterling, and Barbara Defenbaugh, 18, of Laurelville.

BROWN AND Miss Storer will leave Nov. 30 for Chicago.

Their selection was based on all-around achievement in 4-H activities plus specific accomplishments in the area for which the trip was granted.

Brown was one of 11 youths picked for the trip during the Ohio State Fair, where they placed first in various competition. He was judged the state's "healthiest boy."

Miss Storer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Storer, was awarded the trip honor because of her work in farm and home safety education.

Her efforts were credited with making many Pickaway County farmers safety-conscious and with the development of earlier work accomplished in this field.

Miss Storer gave a number of safety speeches and demonstrations and had a specialty in making safety posters.

SHE SERVED as safety director of her 4-H club, which gave plays with a safety theme, distributed literature and furnished a first aid room in the high school in her home community.

Brown, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, has given health talks in his home township and has also specialized in study of dairy animal diseases. He is a member of the Deercreek 4-H Livestock club and a senior in Williamsport school.

He gives "good food and common sense" as the best, old reliable formula for good health, stressing the need for regular rest and exercise. Brown, six-foot-one and weighing about 175 pounds, enjoys football and basketball.

Fried chicken, he admitted, is probably the foremost item in mind when he talks of good

Program Arranged For PTA Meeting

An address by Judge William D. Radcliff, a tea for city school teachers and a Cub Pack demonstration will highlight a meeting of Circleville Parent-Teacher Association Thursday night.

Dr. D. S. Goldschmidt, program director for the PTA announced Judge Radcliff will speak on "Americanism."

A tea in honor of the city teachers, an innovation here which may become annual for the PTA group, will be held in the new high school cafeteria.

Arrangements for the tea are being handled by Mrs. Ned Harden, Mrs. Charles Walters and Mrs. David Goldschmidt.

Cub Pack 52 will stage an Indian war dance, using home-made costumes.

Main portions of the program, scheduled for 8 p. m., will be held in Circleville high school auditorium.

food. He does not smoke and sees "no sense" in alcoholic drinks.

At the same time, the county's 1952 health and achievement contender for national laurels emphasizes the merits of normal social activity. Brown said he has a "girl friend" but laughed off the suggestion it is "anything serious."

Youth today, he believes, is more or less the same as the youth of the earlier generations.

"There isn't too much difference," he said. "Today they probably just have fun in different forms."

IN THE contest winner recognition, Timmons was awarded a pocket watch for studies and activities in the meat animal division. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Timmons.

Young Timmons, who has had an outstanding record with meat animals for several years, climaxed his efforts this year at the 1952 Pickaway County Fair.

He was also champion Angus showman at the Ohio State Fair. Miss Defenbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Defenbaugh, received a certificate of honor for her work in community relations.

She has completed 28 projects in 4-H work, won the citizenship award in her high school and this year became a charter member of the state junior leadership group.

Pfc. Hamilton In 'Warmwind'

Army paratrooper Pfc. Marvin E. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton of Circleville Route 1, has arrived in Alaska for the huge Army-Air Force arctic maneuver, "Exercise Warmwind."

A member of the 503d Airborne Regimental Combat Team of the 11th Airborne Division, Hamilton made the trip from Fort Campbell, Ky., by air. The troop movement, called "Operation Long Haul," was the largest and longest airlift of men in history.

"Warm Wind" is designed to give soldiers and airmen experience in the defense of Alaska. Before the exercise begins, each man will receive a thorough arctic indoctrination to familiarize him with the techniques of survival in extreme cold.

A gunner in Battery C of the 457th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, Private Hamilton entered the Army in 1951.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 8 — An unidentified San Antonio Democrat resented the winning smirk of his Republican landlady Thursday and was jailed after he tried to burn her house.

Right About Ike, Wrong On Himself

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 — Stephen B. Peddicord, hopeful write-in candidate for the U. S. Senate in Maryland, made two predictions two weeks before election.

1. He said GOP presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower would carry 40 states, only one more than he actually did.

2. The Baltimore electrician also predicted that he, himself, would sweep the Senate race in Maryland, winning by 100,000 votes.

The complete but unofficial returns has failed to turn up a single ballot for Peddicord.
